TRAGEDIE

CHABOT ADMIRALL OF FRANCE

As it was presented by her Majesties Servants, at the private House in Drury Lane.

Written by Seorge Chapman, (5)
and older fine)
James Shirly in the control of the LONDON,

Printed by Ibo. Cotes, for Andrew Crooke, and William Cooke.

TRAGEDIE

OF

PHILIP CHABOT.

ADMINITOF FRANCE

Al. A bad age the while, a let your pardon Sir, bu sumir Prout Pardon Sir, bu sumir Prout Pardon

Enter Afall, and Allegre mass here sere sur

Afall.

Ow Phillip Chabot, Admirall of France, g ball The great, and onely famous Favorite
To Francis fire of that Imperiall name,
Hath found a fresh competitor in glory,
(Duke Monimorancie, Constable of France)

One argument, his hearty truth to all.

Who drinkes as deepe as he of the streame Royall,
And may in little time convert the strength
To raise his spring, and blow the others fail.

Al. The world would wish it so, that will not patiently Endure the due rise of a verticus man,

That men affect him nor, why is he lost and large the large that him nor, why is he lost and large the large that he lost and large the lost and large

A 2

Toth

Toth' generall opinion, and become ? ??
Rather their hate than love?

Al, I wonder you Will question it, aske a ground or reason Of men bred in this vile degenerate age; The most menare not good, and it agrees not With impious natures to allow what honest. Tis an offence enough to be exalted To regall favours, great men are not fafe In their owne vice, where good men by the hand Of Kings are planted to furvey their workings : What man was ever fixt 'ith Sphere of honour, And precious to his Soveraigne, whose actions, Nay very foule was not expos'd to every Common and base diffection a and not onely That which in Nature hath excuse, and in Themselves is priviledg'd by name of frailtie. But even Vertues are made crimes, and doom'd Toth' fate of Treason.

I. A bad age the while,
I aske your pardon Sir, but thinkes your judgement,
His love to Justice, and Corruptions hate

Are true and hearty?

Al. Iudge your felfe by this

One argument, his hearty truth to all,

For in the heart hath anger his wifelt feate,

And gainst unjust fuites such brave anger fires him,

That when they seeke to passe his place and power,

Though mov'd; and urg'd by the other minion,

Or by his greatest friends, and even the King

Leade them to his allowance with his band,

First given in Bill, affign'd, even then his spirit,

(In nature calme as any Summers evening)

Puts up his Whole powers like a Winters see,

His bloud boyles over, and his heart even cracks

At the injustice, and he teares the Bill,

And would doe, were he for't to be torne in praces.

As. Tis brave I sweare.

That I must tell you further, theres no Needle
In a Sunne Diall plac'd upon his steele
In such a tender posture, that doth tremble
The timely Diall being held amisse,
And will shake ever, till you hold it right
More tender than himsele in any thing
That he concludes in Iustice for the States
For as a fever held him, hee will shake
When he is signing any things of weight,
Least humane frailty should misguide his justice.

As. You have declar'd him a most noble Justice.

Al. He truely weighes and feeles Sir, what a charge of the fubjects livings are (being even their lives Laid on the hand of power,) which abas'd Though scene, blood slownot from the justice scate, Tis in true sence as grieyous, and horrid.

Af. It argues nothing leffe, but fince your Lord
Is diverfly reported for his parts,
Whats your true confure of his generall worth,

Vertue and Indgement.

Al. As of a Picture wrought to opticke reason,
That to all passers by, seemes as they move
Now woman, now a Monster, now a Divell,
And till you stand, and in a right line view it,
You cannot well judge what the maine forme is,
So men that view him but in vulgar passes.
Casting but laterall, or partiall glances,
At what he is, suppose him weake, unjust,
Bloody, and monstrous, but stand free and fast,
And judge him by no more than what you know
Ingenuously, and by the right laid line
Of truth, he truely, will all stiles deserve
Of wise, just, good, a man both soule and nerve.

As. Sir, I must joyne in just beleefe with you,

But whats his rival the Lord high Constable?

Al. As just, and well inclin'd when hee's himselfe,

(Not wrought on with the counsells, and opinions

B 3

Of -

Of other men) and the maine difference is,
The Admirall is not flexible nor wonne
To move one (cruple, when he comprehends
The honest tract and justinesse of a cause,
The Constable explores not for sincerely
The course hee runnes, but takes the minde of others
(By name Iudiciall) for what his owne
Iudgement, and knowledge should conclude.

Af. A fault In my apprehension, anothers knowledge Applied to my infruction, cannot equal My owne fonles knowledge, how to informe Acts; The Sunnes rich radiance shorthrough waves most faire, Is but a shaddow to his beames ith' ayre, His beames that in the tyre we fo admire, but so he Is but a darkenelle to his flame in fire, of boold anot flaged? In fire his fervour but as vapour flies To what his bwife pure bosome rarifies: And the Almighty wifedom, having given Each man within himselfe an apter light To guide his acts, than any light withouthin (Creating nothing not in all things equal!) It feemes a fault in any that depend On others knowledge, and exile their owne.

Al. Tis nobly argued, and exemplified,
But now I heare my Lord, and his young rivall
Are to be reconcil'd, and then one light
May ferve to guide them both.

Al. I wish it may, the King being made first mover. To forme their reconcilement, and enflame it.
With all the sweetnesse of his praise and honour.

Al. See, tis dispatch'd I hope, the King doth grace it.

Loud Musicke, and Enter Vibers before, the Secretary,

Tresuror, Chancellor, Admirall, Constable hand in band, the King following, others attend.

Kin. This doth expresse the noblest fruit of peace.

Cha. Which when the great begin, the humble end In joyfull imitation, all combining

Most great, and flourishing like trees that wrap
Their forehead in the skies, may these doe to.

To celebrate with pious vote the attonement So lately, and so nobly made betweeneyou.

Ad. Which for it selfe Sir, resolve to keepe.

To encourage or confirme it, but my owne

Love and allegiance to your facred counfell.

Kin, Tis good, and pleases, like my dearest health, Stand you firme on that sweete simplicitie.

Con. Past all earth pollicie that would infringe it.

Kin, Tis well, and answers all the doubts inspected.

Enter one that mhisters with the Admiral.

And what moves this close mellage Phillip?

Adm. My wives Father Sir, is closely come to Court.

King. Is he come to the Court, whose aversation

So much affects him, that he thunnes and flies it,
What's the ftrange reason that he will not rife

Above the middle region he was borne in?

Adm. He faith Sir, tis because the extreame of height

Makes a man leffe seems to the imperfect eye

Then he is truely, his acts envised more.

And though he nothing cares for seeming, for

His being just stand firme twixt heaven and him,
Yet fince in his soules jealousse, bee scarce
That he himselfe advanced twould undervalue and himselfe advanced twould undervalue and himselfe.

Men placed beneath him, and their butinesse with him, and she butinesse with him, and their butinesse with him with him, and their butinesse with him with him

And apts his failes to ayres more, temperate, oral con mela 10

Raife men that are not wife till they be high from nov non W You have our leave, but tell him Phillip were said at man A Would have him necret.

The French Admirall.

Con. Your defires attend you.

Kin. We know from whence you come, fay to the Queene.
We were comming to her, tis a day of love
And the leales all perfection.

Exist

Tre. My Lord, We must befeech your stay.

Con. My stay? Cha. Our Gounsells

Have led you thus farre to your reconcilement, And must remember you, to observe the end At which in plaine I told you then wee aim'dat, You know we all urg'd the attonement, rather To enforce the broader difference bet weene you, Then to conclude your friendshippe, which wife men Know to be fashionable, and priviledg'd pollicie, And will succeede betwixt you, and the Admirall As fure as fate, if you please to get fign'd A fuse now to the King with all our hands, Which will so much increase his precise justice, That weighing not circumstances of politicke State, He will instantly oppose it, and complaine, And urge in passion, what the King will sooner Punish than yeeld too, and so render you In the Kings from no on him, the onely darling; And mediate power of France.

Con. My good Lord Chancellor, Shall I so late attor'd, and by the Kings Hearry and earnest motion, fall in peeces?

Cha. Tis he, not you that breake.

To let him burne himselse in the Kings stame?

Cha. Come, he not Sir infected with a spice.

Of that too service equitie, that renders.

Men free borne slaves, and rid with birs like horses,

When you must know my Lord, that even in nature.

A man is Animal politicams,

So that when he informes his actions simply

H

He does in both gainft pollicie and hatthree a name man a risol al Extingu th his fires, the market holytin shoot me sreleval bat And in your after give his iterative chitten played spilled of Che. My Lord, the leagung monitors of the played the leagung monitors of the leagung mo We and like them become ambified to the flasher surt and But makes you boundlefte the animovament and mi salba bah No tough hides limiting our theverill middes tool and wareful A Yare great, and mult grow greater if it is the great from the great and mult grow great if it is the great great in the great And not be like a dull and manding lake olive and eight bear T That fettles, putrifice, and chokes with modde and nach alive A But like a river gushing from the head; stort w noqu , ot min, I That windes through the under willes what cheekes bee flows H Gets ftrength ftill of his course, Tourseny advantage, Till with the Ocean meeting, even with him his ocean meeting, even with him of rifing State finen lawy and title, his brave ballower have been lawy. Con. You faithe a seaffection and high fordes him and IIA Con. Why los was the end planting of the bideness of the bideness of the contract of the state o I undermine the columnes that flippoorty flore are Y which My hopefull glorious fortune, and aronice to the My hopefull glorious fortune. Provoke the tempelt; thoughtid thowife my the limb which with what affurance will be to the temperature with the temperature of the temperature with the tem My faith to him, that breake Ir for another hans sen ragneb on Forfits my amilarication, whole narrow fight into the Will penetrate through all our mifts, could we blued nov sail Vaile our defigne with clouds blacker than higher and I ha But grant this danger over, with what Tuffice, 34 buo Y . 3 ? Or fatisfaction to the inward Indge a signi so blunch ! Shall I be gultie of this good mans thine it as an affect of form Though I may still the murmuring tongues without me. Loud conscience has a voyce to shadder greatness, 13151115 Secr. A stame to fright, and terrific young flatiffs W ... A There is necessitie my Lord; that you all result as a line will be A Must lose your light, if you ecclipte not him a fire and allugad Two flarres to Lucidelcandor thine at once v elduon or erret o? I deenor like the loud tongue o'the world,

Former F Structures 2777
In fuch a firmament, and better you
Extinguish his fices then be made his Gall ming model 2500 523
Extinguish his fires, then be made his fivelland and a soon and a soon and an armonial his fires, then be made his fivelland and a soon and and in your ashes give his flame, a Trophyan vineyeast a his do To Gha. My Lord, the league that you have your dot friends in A.
To be like licavenly never the manager and and grants and all of Cas. My Lord, the league that you have you'd of friends A
A liberty, but looke to your owne fortune
Secure your honour a Precision of the second rights of
In frate, is a rideculous missole
A liberty, but looke to your proper and a liberty, but looke to your property of the stand shades limit succeeding and past a resident property. Yere great, and rault good great pleasure added to a vior, beneath, which goes to like a dult date, when the property of the standard property. A wife man laughes to less whole the standard property of the standard property
A wife men laughes so General and a duli a duli be a dul
i hat letties, putrices, while the second second second
A wife man laughes to fee whole families and the state of
That windes through aveolate tum gover extell 9 sense
Cets fireneth fill of his course Alauca vis of hill of his course.
Con., Milery , mid drive ways pairson asso and drive Hill
Of riling Statelmen I mult on I feet was the history and in the That gainst the color of the col
All justice raife but affectation
But give me leave great Lords, morathade and after said Cha. Change Hell aw fol yell. Cha. Why for what he been ob lead aw fol yell. Liceking this way he want and then red he are the company of the change of th
Towns of the state
Liceking this way to walk and the true and the
- I WILL YOUR LORGINDS michigan and and the little and wild
WHILL DIALIGE LOUB TOTAL CONTROL OF THE STATE OF THE STAT
No danger has accelle to threaten you where a share this W
No danger has accelle to threaten you condicate anid or dair all
Still your old argument of owe your love tries a serial
Fa. But fortified with new and pregnant reasons, un sinto
That you should leave the Court no lle squords estatement H.W.
Vaile our defigne with clouds blacker than is ton the
Fa. You dare be and one should supply an all of the v
Rut grant this danger over, wash snebnu be bliven
Or freislaction to the inward in Hulansragni ed thould It
To fuch a mafter, as no subject bouffed a la do sisting and 1 stale
To leave his tervice when they exact after shirt if your I defend T
Pry chiereit dune, and attendance Singar e and anguistions had I would thou west telle depraced frame characters and
And I welling omces, that walleth end I um pullsoan at any a Enguire there pair a referre. I had not comet attend white of latte to trouble you at this time, have always to be any
I GUE TILE TILE TOP LOUIS COMMUNICATION OF THE COMM
That

3 he tomir Hel France

That fav the King has tane another favorite, who I and The Conflable a gay, man, and a great wad borotni slid W With a hugh traine of faction too, the Queens and in over !! An army of free warriers who a work continued was An army of free warriers who are committed to the continued with the continue And I befeech you nour in the neithful to control at I before the make in the state of the world at the summer of the state of the stat Adm. Report has not abus d you Sir, hai and that estuaffu? Fa. It has not. That of necessicie we must pervert it has not necessite we must be really are now and with passing or necessite with passing or necessite with passing or necessite with the real passing or necessite with the necessite with With unjust courles, the great Conlable vave and every And you combining that no faite may paffe and pranutrol of One of the graples of your eithers rape, noin mi flora and no I I that abhorr'd must I now entertaine there and the A. A. A thought, that your fo ftraight, and fimple cultome of the To render Iultice, and the common soud inter grow or it it Should now be patch'd with pollicy, and wrested a said ban A From the ingenious fep you tooke, it to soldier earl right of Where they leave much for favourites powers to gred bah Adm. But wee have in groups very le gable of and or In the Imperiall above on the inches of the control of the Adm, Sir, Weboth are responsibel and anover aid to tuO Fa. It followes then that toth the acts wall best arian A Like reconcilement, and if her will now innover out not but Maligne and mallion you for crofting him i we rece two were well and mallion you have been some and mallion were well and mallion with the well and mallion wel Or any of his faction in their dites, easiful love of lin ii and Being now arton d, you much be one in all, the aft ni figured T One in corruption, and twint you two millflones aw regards New pickt, and put together, mult the grainel an amand anO Of good mens needfull meanes to live, be ground find sail T Into your choking superfluities & and some flam on and bulk You both too rich, they ruinde by A flood a bluo 1 ... Mee both may be enrich'd, and raife our fortunes to and? Even with our places in our Soversignes favour: Though past the height of others, yet within . Som are it will The rules of Law and Jultice, and appropries going I . woo Our actions white and innocenty one in the addition of I

That fav the Kipp has tane another favority stuob I al While inforc'd thew pelling, which will Pleare find a district Prove in true fabiliance but a Miller whitenesse and a di W. Chancellor, I sollowed Described their confessions. Adm. Your centile herein talls forme bellion sho yours na And I befeech you nourish better thought all out on said at Then to imagine that the Kings micere grace cour sursequed I Sultaines fuch prejudice by those it honours 7090 A That of necessitie we must pervert it with passionate enemies, and amortions bounded you but A Avarice, and every free incitate and, sel most lucino de W To fortunate greate and impal abute it idmoo nov bath For the most impious avarice of tome, to solding out to on! Fa. As if the totall fumme of favorites tradities on sinh i A thought, that your going with 16 sure in 1800 the Att 1800 to 1800 t In their owne partially disposed ambitions, so that Kings doe no hazard infinitely said to how the ingenior, bring the ingenio Where they leave much for favourites powers to order In the Imperial are the manual first of on King and non V Adm, Sie, Webern 251-2516 all and ruova aid ho Out of the State of the And for the reconcilement of his sir hun and concilement of his sir hundred and his si Meligne and any of the work that were the same of the Orany of his talking of the talking of talking of the talking of tal Pehaps we differ. How foreveryer within , no inquire on one One beame us both creatings what module is about well. That both one coules frould best one mercle bear move on And that one frame, one world what the could not one of the could be the could not one the could not o And that one stampe, one word one character not move on Fa. I could almost be won to be a Courtier, Theres fome thing more in's composition, Then ever was favourites. To date Even with our places in Allieur wiram Liver Though past the herote of colors, yet within , Sad stad W

Com. I bring your Dordship a figured bill, to taxe The addition of your honor'd trand, the counfell

Have

The wedmirall of Energy

Have all before subscribed, and full proper'd it? Or elfe they wike the cin the Gonfables word, no minutes que It being his fuite, and his power having wrought mistoril The King already to appoin his hand, an air bottom in tall Adm. I doe not like his working of the King, it daid W For if it be a fuite madelenowne to himpose to b'and end w And fit to palle, he wrought himfelfe to it, dans a wid bair! However my hand goes to no fitch grant and on each of the state of the st But first I'le know and confine it my felfe. San ennederson me Conr. A he, if thou been goddelfe ab contemporary V That low tooke by the haire, and but d from heaven shind I Thy firebrand make to turne his love, thus compred smol Ili T Into a hate, as horridge the furies, 100 7 and al condetted I Adm. Dose this beare nick to his Lordings Juiceleon but A Of his jult prize, his prize is flaid and seed of ruoy and Adm. No though the relation of the Kings disposing, reduce the selection of the World to the genithers and the control of the genithers and he control of the genithers and he control of the world to the genithers and he control of the world of the world of the genithers and he control of the world of the worl Our Countrey mans inti station of some state of sid and Africa Twee ais selected and the selection of the se Should owne and urge it, I would flay and croffe it, amin For tis within the free power of my office, split offe? . " And I should fraine his kingdome if the die with I make I fee their poore extempts, and middy milice it sqidhao. I a H Is this the reconcilement that for lately and quisto la paibulant He vow'd in facred witnesse of the King ? b wov viluois at Affuring me, he never more would offer matur boog mid avo I To paffe a fuite unjult, which I well know to rous I'li rol This is, above all, and have oftenbeeneng'd adayol anavast! To give it piffage, be you sit the Judge. in amin'my albit! Fa. I wonor meddle me en should be rever sonow I Itil With any thing of state, you knew long fines par and Your Admi

The water English to Charles to the angle
Adm. Yet you may heare it Strain had and alle away!
at Fart ou wonot orge two and part und someout I Ab.
My opinion then, go to. Adm. An honest merchant bro I was doubt on Month.
Adm. An honett merchant prod was scuenced and a
Prefuming on our league of Praice with spaine and all o
Brought into Spaine a wealthy thip, to vent alial aid mind &
Her ht commodities to lerve the country and an analy and a
Which, in the place of fuffering their staile on sob 1 and A
Were leas'd to recompence a Spanis thip stial a so that to Priz'd by a French man, ere the league was made, q and anA
No fuites, no letters of our Kings could gaine may world
Our merchants first eight in it; but his letters onal all ihn aud
Vnreverently received, the Kings felfe leandall, A
Befide the leagues breach, and the foule injustice as wol and T
Done to our honest merchant, who endured alt, a ni smill A
Till some small sime since (authoris'd by our counsell, in yell Though not in open Court.) he made a thip rootes estat a out I
And tooke a Specific de ings albhomes and fires Cl. Mal.
Court. It dosses and find the stand of the stand of the stand of the stand of the standard of
Of his just prize, his prize is staid and lossely moy restree The rather your
Yet for the Kings disposure, and the Received to Mark
Makes fuite to be reftor diher which this bill an aris work and
Would frine get stanted faining Gasthedond dod still and
Would fine get granted, faining fastlicy hop died and and with my allowance, and way governous articles and lie all
Our Countrey mans in Spriste their abfoluse prist of aid ront A
Fa. I were abfolite in justite, it i bne , sliv boe egneril el
Adm. Should I paffeit ? bliow I , i sorubre anwablucil?
Fa. Paffe life, and flate before wag and and girling sit no ?
Adm. If this would fremenobyand sid argenti black I bank
His Lordships spice his love to me, and fallier of riods sal
Including plots upon me, while my fimplenesses and will el
Is ferioully vow'd to reconcilement and better ways
Love him good vulgars, and abhorre me fill, of an attract
For if I court your flatterie with my crimee, u and ashego!
Heavens love before me fly, till in my tombe is avode at the
I sticke pursuing it, and for this bill, by ad , age high win o'l
Thus fay twas shiver'd, blesse us equall heaven! Exit.
Fa. This could I cherish, now above his losse,
Total a sustain a stoke who ac title lotte.

The Admiral of Pranceis Tad T

You may report at much, the bill discharg'd Sir. M. H. Barenar. Tr

Enter King and Queen, Secretary wish the Torne bill.

Kim. Come vour language dock talle Orrage and womanin flame chandold reachens T Sit England Q ve Good heaven how came you are? A sale flais ga Doe Kings of France reward foule Trainors thus 22 2000 00000 Kin. No Traitor, y'are too loude: Chabets no Traitory Per Commands of mid thods nem storening of sharmon . " And multiplicitie of cares may maken voloring year of second of Wife men forget themselves, come bel you patient iff nes be A 2". Can you be fo, and fee your felfe time torne all and yd You have most confidently import appar in all a un. Qu. There is some left, if yo thre owner and you and art Your royall character, is not this your names -mortanimba-balA He has a wife, ______ Tryd binorila of noque will stind stin Your subject, shall the facred name of Kingy t mod W A word to make your nation bow and tremble, and the A Be thus profain'd, are lawes effablished and ano admiri and To punish the defacers of your limage, Maw MaW and A But dully fet by the rude hand of others anniged off . Edu V pon your coine, and shall the character of adi and and mabald That doth include the bleffing of all France, wollet cli Your name, thus written by your royall hand Defign'd for Justice, and your Kingdomes honour; alia61 ba A Not call up equall anger to reward it end movembal. Your Countellors of state contemn'd, and slighted As in this braine more circumscrib'd all wisedome, And pollicy of E npire, and your power, amalian bank Su'ordinate and Subject to his passion authorize I judo

Qu. Is this the confequence additional and Ofan attonement mide to lately betweeners. Wolf and

The Frembeddmiral that A odr

	The hopefull Mountmorence; and his Bordfrip neger with to Vrge by your felfe with fuch a precious fanction;
	Come, he that dares doe this, wants not a heart,
	But opportunitie anbunood wash.
	Kin. To doe what?
	Q. Totoare your crowne office and Ohn pail Train !
	Kin. Come your language dorh talte more
. ,	Ofrage and womanish flame than solid reason and it? I will
	Against the Admirally whateonmande of gours 9
	Doe Kings of France reward to tested acinemages on Property
	By him is ground of your folked a disples fare and of sall
	Qu. Commands of mine the is soo great; and power full all
	To floope to my employment a Coloffer to lo sinisity alum ba A
	And can frida Good one Principle as a habitary tentral man ali W
51	Wife men forget tredichers exercises on production bird ber By By Can you be for and feees in of feel the same bills and you be for and fees in of the same bills and you be for an and fees in the same bills and the same bi
	You have molt confidently impostd upon his 10 mix
	Tis he, not you calcumate the place of a cool a seed a seed a seed Tax O
	And admiration subjection his Daily bearing for Perend Heyer 2004
	You have most considently imposed upon him? Out Tis he, not you take upohar the place of the constant of the control of the co
	He has a wife acres a suite and all NO
	He has a wife, Be but a name entre Chanceller, Treufering and before manufer de daim a name
	Your fubject, thall the wine wood deshire Windson modW.
	A word to make your nation benius shredenbirsh in sud I but I
	Can triumph are her debitieffe anne la se l'aire non anne B
	Can triumph ore her gestitistis es la wes est la se la King. Well, well, liendrich et general et general et est est est est est est est est est
	Cha. He beginnes modincline, and en rude the duly fer by the rude har, and he can be duly fer by the rude har, and he can be duly fer by the can be duly for the can be duly fer by the can be duly fer by the can be duly for the can be duly fer by the can be duly for the can be du
	Madam you are the fould of our great worke anion move non V
	Qu. He follow, and imploy my powers upon him bob sent
	Tre. We are confident you will prevaile artaliamen and Y
	And for the pious worke oblige the King to wind and be of bog and Cha, And us your humblest creatures one llarpo quilles self Que. Prefie no furthers manage and to 270119 Exa. Que.
	Cha. Lets feeke out my Lord Conflable, monitro and me A
	7re. And inflame him gare cana brig a lo yelle q bank
	Cha. To expostulate with Chabor, something may a because Arife from thence, to pull more weight upon ham? Exent.
	Enter Father and Allege en 3 and 3 in 2 19
	Fa. How fortethe businessed how tooke the King
	odt
	100

The tearing of his bill?	articles parte	field performe a f	The same of
Al. Exceeding well,		May fin c
And feem'd to finite at all	their grimme	complaints.	Hees
wainit all that outrage to	nis highneffe	handins and Die	Bucd
And faid in plaine, he fign	d it but to tr	7
My Lords firme Inflice	sitt 331f 0131	Maria Balline 200	12000
What a sweete Ki	ng tis?	he so reach sind	E,ELEI-
AL But how his rivally	the Lord Con	Taple plon Am	186
Is laboured by the Chance	llor, and oth	ers to retone	HIG X
His wrong with ten parts	more upon m	y Lord, Us vo D In	2000
TO MOUITLORS TO A SALE	Of Dell's Chor	SCHOOL BOADTON	nord.
Fa. Neede hee their fpu	rrest 10 311.	Magand Mace	21. VV
Ale: I Sir, for hece afraid	1 sect Aut And	national transfer	26
To beare himfelte roo bold	ly in his brav	seu i Amana eu a	7011
v pon the King (being ne	wly entred !	Mynion)	301
Vpon the King (being no Since tis but patience forme	time they thi	nke	ie.
Occasive the savor spending	in two ftream	Adding it p doof	LnA
Take for a Control of the Control	gth, till when	be dire	E-Asr
Because the favor spending One must runne low at lon Take fire in find flame; as But with wife these desired	his faction W	ine. I wake seni	126
		AND COLORS SEE SEE SEE SEE SEE SEE	E53 E
Like a greene faggot in his	kindling Imo	akes,	137.71.
			A TAX
INC WILLIAM HILLS DIE CO.		TO THE RESERVE OF THE PARTY OF	0.00
crien me rappor tiame	P. SO SHAPE WALL	25年3月1日(10日) (10日) (10日
The bellowes needed, till to	he too fuft gr	cenenelle	Sec.
	Mr. Janes Hill	EDS-200 SERVICE SCHOOL SERVICE STREET STREET	915.2
Above the folid timber, w	ith which, ch	ico	A LICE
His blaze thrinkes head; he	cooles, and i	moakes agen.	FIF
Fa. Good man he would	De, wod the	bad not spoile him	2 12
Al. True fir, but they fill	i ply nim wit	h their arts,	26.3
And as I heard have wrough To question my Lord with	it tilm, perior	nally
The galls of all their faction	an the bitt	ernelle
And fuch an expectation h	can powre	d have exercit we	V
Though all the Court as tw	angs upon t,	Allo relato refres	164
To make a mirror of my Lo	rde cleare t	d, and long'd	A -
And therein fee the full ebb	e of his deal	os, Dare, why	The state of the s
And therefore if you pleafe	or ma nood	lan. Because in	1.00
SUM	Comment
	3.0	1	ON

You shall performe a fathers part. Fa. Nay fince
Hees gone fo farre, I wod not have him feare her him
Bur dare e'm, and yet ile not meddle int.
Enter Admirall.
Hoes here, if he have wit to like his cause,
His spirit wonot be asham'd to die int.
Al. My Lord recire, y'are way-laid in your walkes,
Your friendes are all fallen from you, all your fervants del
Suborn d by all advantage to report
Suborn'd by all advantage to report Each word you whifper out, and to ferve you.
With hat and knee, while other have their hearts.
Adm. Much profit may my foes make of fuch fervants.
I love no enemy I have to well, the destail limit aread of To take to ill a bargaine from his hands.
To take to ill a bargaine from his hands.
Al. Their other oddes yet hun, all being combinde,
And lodg'd in ambulh ariv'd to doe you mischiefe singlus
By any meanes pall feare of law or loveragene anny flum on
Adm. I wa'ke no defart, vergoe arm'd with thee on sale
Al. Their other oddes yet fluin, all being combinde, 22 and lodg'd in ambulh ariv'd to doe you mischiefe and but a By any meanes past feare of law, or lovereigne must fluin and Adm. I walke no defart, yet goe arm'd with thise, and all a That would give wildest beafts instincts to rescue, within the Rather then offer any lorce to hurt me
Rather then offer any force to hart me
My innocence is, which is a conquering justice, is stand by
As weares a fhield, that both defends and fights. world all
All. One against all the worlds among animal and but
Adm. The more the oddes.
The leffe the conqueit, or if all the world
Be thought an army fit to employ gainst one, bild add and
That one is argued fit to fight gainft all; mode, faith and a
If I fall under them, this break thall beare
Their heape digested in my sepulchre.
Death is the life of good men, let e'm come.
Enter Conftable, Chancellor, Treasurer, Secretary.
Con. I thought my Lord our reconcilement perfect.
You have exprest what fee of gall flow'd in you.
In rearing of the Diff of Icot to allow:
Adm. Dare you contelle the lending of that bill!
Com. Dare, why not it and had a find a stood night but
Adm. Because it breake your oathologue fire to the total

The Admirall of France, all

Made in our reconcilement.	and betrayer file afficient and Y
I DE DOBOUT, and the chiefe is
AA DICH TOTAL BUILDING	Kreeking mark second was a second
TIMES INVIENCE AND PROPERTY	P DOUBLE TO HIM I WAS A SECOND TO SE
Omnes You campor and	Survey of the survey of the survey of a locality
2 main would not with w	Pleafe her rodoesse ign formal King Y noiths near rafto uto
So most impossibly, and muc	Exceede you eo your hi finisga d
The judgement, and favour o	tehe Kinggar Alia ak
Camp. IIII 1000cment no	Phis toyour I reined
So I preferve his Inflice.	The fount and floods both et you
Con. IIX HUE INTICO	The state of the s
Adm. All your great lane	and beginning with the August 18th August
When I plead plainely maked	and teating are out worth,
Which though you feelero fo	avarith floor and dance
I'le shoote a shaft at all your	and learning are but words, but A cruth, included and glory, and a with flare, and glory, and a wight and a globe of light, and to and an another and globe of light, and to and an another and globe of light, and to and an another and globe of light, and to and an another and globe of light, and to an another another and globe of light, and to an another another and globe of light, and to an another another and globe of light, and to an another another and globe of light, and to an another another and globe of light, and to an another another and globe of light, and the another and globe of light, and the another another another and globe of light, and the another anothe
If lightning folit it, very week	night and right; y a service Enter
Draverelolution to	te a De house from hour animan II
THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PROPERTY OF THE	The state of the s
Chan. How came he then	That powerful hand head handably
Tre. Well faid my Lord	And after you crum somesting
Sec. Aniwer but onely the	But it the innocence, and alghan
Con. By doing inflice thill i	And pounes for snoise sid lie of
Sec But if this action provi	unjust, will you said and lo
Say all his other may be fo as w	All Lings juli Loundes wichler
And thinke your owne course	fitter farre than his, wom doing
Con, I Will	Birell Brief 18715 Mal Margaret and Comment
Cha. He cooles, we mult no	r leave him, we have no
Such engine to remove the A	miral La desi ver and Promise
Enter King and the	Admirall, said quich with
Am. I prethee Philip be no	E Co Coverence sound over had at
10 nim 1 rayour, tis an argume	Miss. The Detreet Vol. and Alasta
I hat may icrye one day to arre	In many Cally and the land
Nor Does it square with your standard for the standard for the source of the standard for t	Strong on Octomical
To give such fires of envie to vo	Forther If and sor shoot re
For how locuer out of love to I	Of pride of any fire visit coils
Yell	C a Your
	lour

A CONTRACTOR OF THE PROPERTY O
Your Tealoufie of that doth fo incense you	אומלב וה ספר דפנחשבם
Yet they that confire it will fay tis envy-	The honour, and the
Adm. I ferve not you for them, but for	Voich is bilation
And that good in your Rule, that Iuffice d	Con. Reitmoreso
And care not this what others fay loyou	Adm. Notelle at
Please but to doe me right for what you ke	- Ocener You canon
King. You will not doe your felfe righ	Ather Conld&
Execute warms of the state of t	dimphiliporing
Exceede you to your felfe man them bes	y omognin som ca
Adm. My felfe ammothing to moved i	Mis has magnificant
Compar'd to what I feekes tis justice one!	Applant mera
The fount and flood, both of your ftrength	and Kingdomet
King. But who knowes not, that extrea	me jultico is
(by all ruld lawes) the extreame of injuri	Canon of Thomas
And must to you be for the persons that o	Team. VII sont Bi
Your passionate heate calls into question	When I piesa pinum
Are great, and many, and may wrong in y	A unch though A to
Your rights of kinde, and dignities of fort	une, all a bround by 1
And I advanc'd you not to heape on you	ir ilghramg i plum.
Honours, and fortunes, that by flrong ha	Con Blawon bi
Heldup, and over you, when heaven ak	He cares for effort
That powerfull hand 'should thunder on y	our head, thed.)
And after you crush your surviving seede	by all big infinite.
Adm. Sir, your regards to both are great	and facred.
But if the innocence, and right that rais'd n	Sec. Antwer ton
And meanes for mine, can finde no frien
Of him that ever lives, and ever feconds?	See Bucil this a
All Kings just bounties with defence, and	refugeo antita ve?
In just mens races, let my fabricke ruine.	And thunke your ou
My Rocke want sap, my branches by the ro	ote- Hivil ato
Be forme to death, and I wept with whirley	vindesone, and
King a For my love no relenting.	Such engine to rein
Adm. No my leige, land a dilate ye	N seems
Tis for your love, and right that I stand out	A Mind L present !
King. Be better yet advis'd.	To him Haven, ch
Adm. I cannot Sir a move lieve or vab	That may let ue offe
Should any Oracle become my counself.	Nor Does it come
For that I fland not out, thus of fer will.	To we turn the case
Or pride of any fingular conceite,	For how locact our
6.3	Mr

The Calmiratt of France.

My enemies, and the world may elevely know; I want to the no fweetes to drowne in others gall, you must account And to affect in that which makes me lothed, a out want to And all my fortunes in an inflaint foll ow as religiously move in That meny, cares, and paines, and yeares have gather'd, How mad were I to rave this in my wounds, ming are yell Vnleffe my knowne health felt in their ford diffuse or und I Were found, and fir, and that I did not know shed to rebest I By most true proofes, that to become fineere & Hall week With all mens hares, doth farre exceede their loves, and mo To be as they are, mixtures of corruption to misq may not him?

And that those envises that I fee pursue me blod than power and a Of all true actions are the natural confequence war wait How Which being my object, and my refolute choice was to slow it Not for my good but yours, I will have justice.

King. You will have justice, is your will so strong Now against mine? your power being forweaked the Before my favour gave them both their forces 17 21 1 . and the Of all that ever that'd in my free graces no time briss?" . will You Philip Chabet a meane Geneleman and add at I will have not I raised you to a suprement Lord, we and a will And given you greater dignities than any after about live and I King. Well fed, and to fourre your dollnessed line . will With the particulars to which I rais d you, whos, sommod wM Have not I made you first a Knight of the Orders and the sale Then Admirall of France, then Count Bynames, Lord, and Liverenant generall of all adoction you'l' well My country, and command of Burgady and an action and A Livetenant generall likewise of my sonne Daulphine, and heire, and of all Normandy, And of my chiefely honor d privy Counfell, all hog orom and And cannot all these powers weigh downe your will? Adm. No Sir, they were not given me to that end, o me But to uphold my will, my will being justine an dray b'avel King. And who shall judge that Justice, you or I have

Adm. I Sign this cale your royall thoughts are hely
You have the generall charge with care of all. Kin. And doe not generalls include particulars?
You have the generall charge with care of all.
Kin. And doe not generalls include particulars?
May not I Indoe of this thing comprized	1
In your particular as well as you? Adm. Farre be the milery from you, that you may,
Adm. Farre he the milery from you, that you may,
My cares, paines, broken fleepe therein, made more
My cares, paines, broken seepe therein made more Than yours should make me see more, and my forces	1
Render of better jadgement I trit bes ent bas bautot and de	2
King. Well Sie, grant morad or tach estone aut flom	-
Your force in this my odds in benefits	y
Paid for your paines, put in the other scale,	2 500
And any equal holder of the hallance	A A
And any equall holder of the ballance de average de ratio be. Will shew my merits boilt up yours to sire merits autille of
In rule of any doubt or deed betwixt us.	3
Adm. You merit not of me for benefits	7
More than one felfe of you for fervices
More than my felfe of you for fervices. King. Ist possible.	į
Adm. Tis true and the firthed ment over moves the order	50
King. Stand you on that the early on min and the a will like t
Adm. I to the death and will approve to all men.
Kin. I am deceiv'd, but I shall finde good Judges	100
The will find a difference
I hat will finde difference and antique assess no (13 via ha
That will finde difference. Adm. Finde them being good. King. Still for what it conferring
A ing. Still for what it contenting;
My bounties, and your fervices to found them,	100
We fall foule on fome licences of yours,	-
Nay, give me therein some advantage of you.
Adm. They cannot. 1,5 1 1 10000 10000 1000 1000 1000 1000
King. Not in fifting their severe discharges
Of all your offices?
Adm. The more you life
Of all your offices? Adm. The more you fift The more you shall refine mee.
ADE. VYINGITE
Grant out against you a commission
Ioyn'd with an extraordinary processes and old deliver
To arrest, and put you in lawes hands for triall. her
V. 5.	,

Adm. Not with lawes uttermolt, King. Hethrow the dice. and mort special on anied and

Adm. And Ile endure the chance, a met solpet on not !

The dice being fquare 12 m to eave has a silvai aported sic

Adm. Repos'd in dreadlesse confidence, and conscience, That all your most excreames shall never reach, Or to my life, my goodes or honours breach.

King. Was ever heard to fine a confidence to the line back Must it not prove prefumption, and can that Scape brackes and errors in your fearch of law, I prethee weigh yet, with more fonle than danger, att weth aimtens payes w

And some lesse passion.

Adm. Witnesse heaven I cannot thed as every of doin were

Were I diffolv'd, and nothing elfe but foulerm anyon ontok!

King. Be shrew my blood, but his resolves amaze me-Was ever fuch a Iustice in a subject saw! I ever out Of fo much office left to his owne fwinge That left to law this, and his Soveraignes weath, is sun and Could fland cleare fright of both ! let reason tule it Before it come at law, a man for rare the Lamoned bas. In one thing cannot in the reft be vulgar, and a service to And who fees you not in the broad high-way The common dust up in your owne eyes, beating In quest of riches, honours, offices, the notes about the grant sel As heartily in fhew as most believe, equions as an Dodwi And he that can use actions with the vulgar, Must needes embrace the same effects & cannot informe him? What soever he precends, use them with such

Free equicie, as fits one just and really countieners and ab vi Even in the eyes of men, nor frand at all parts So truly circular, fo found, and folid. But have his swellings out, his crackes and crannies,

And therefore in this reason, before law Take you to her, leaft you affect and flatter Your felfe with mad opinions! I have avely as all 159 and

Adm. I were mad Directly Sir, if I were yet to know Not the fure danger, but the certaine ruine

Of men shot into law from Kings bent brow,
There being no dreame from the most muddle braine
Vpon the foulest fancie, that can forge
More horrour in the shaddowes of meere fame,
Then can some Lawyer in a man expos'd
To his interpretation by the King,
But these grave toyes I shall despise in death,
And while I live will lay them open so
(My inocence laid by them) that like soiles
They shall sticke of my merits tenne times more,
And make your bounties nothing, for who gives
And hits ith teeth, himselfe payes with the glory
For which he gave, as being his end of giving,
Not to crowne merits, or doe any good,
And so no thankes is due but to his glory.

King. Tisbrave I fweare.

Adm. No Sir, tis plaine, and rude

But true, and spotlesse, and where you object we can be lead of My hearty, and grosse vulgat love of richesse and honours, I did never seeke them to them, but to that justice You ought to use in their due gift to merits.

To shew you royall, and most open handed,

Not using for hands talons, pincers, grapples and in the first of the policy of the po

King. Better and better.

Adm. This your glory is

My deferts wrought upon no wretched matter, But shew'd your royall palmes as free, and moilt, As Ide, all enchast with silver springs,

And yet my merit ftill their equal lings.

King. Sing till thou figh thy foule out hence, and leave us.

Adm. My person shall, my love and faith shall never.

King. Perish thy love, and faith, and thee for ever;

Whofe there?

Enter Afall.

Let one goe for the Chancellor.

Ala.

As. He's here in Court Sir.

King. Haste and send him hither,
This is an insolence I never met with,
Can one so high as his degrees ascend,
Clime all so free, and without staine?

My Lord

Enter Chancellor.

Chancellor, I send for you about a service
Of equall price to me, as if againe
My ransome came to me from Pavian thraidome,
And more, as if from forth a subjects setters,
The worst of servicuses my life were rescued.

Cha. You fright me with a Prologue of much trouble.

King. Me thinkes it might be, tell me out of all
Your famous learning, was there ever inbject
Rais'dby his Soveraignes free hand from the dult,
Vp 'to a height above Ayres upper region,
That might compare with him in any merit
That io advanc'd him? and not shew in that
Grosse over-weening worthy cause to thinke
There might be other-over-sights excepted

Of capitall nature in his fifted greatnesse.

Chan. And past question Sir, for one absurd thing granted,

A thousand follow.

King. You must then employ
Your most exact, and curious art to explore
A man in place of greatest trust, and charge,
Whom I suspect to have abused them all,
And in whom you may give such proud veines vent,
As will bewray their boyling bloud corrupted
Both gainst my crowne and life.
Cha. And may my life

Be curst in every act,

If I explore him not to every finer.

King. It is my Admirall.

Cha. Oh my good Leige

You tempt, not charge me with such search of him.

King. Doubt not my heartiest meaning, all the troubles
That ever mov'd in a distracted King,

Put

Put in just feare of his affaulted life Are not above my sufferings for Chabet.

Cha. Then I am glad, and proud that I can cure you,
For he's a man that I am studied in,
And all his offices, and if you please

To give authoritie.

King. You shall not want it.

Cha. If I discharge you not of that disease,

About your necke growne, by your strange trust in him, With full discovery of the foulest treasons.

King. But I must have all prov'd with that free justice.

Cha. Beseech your Majestie doe not question it.

King. About it instantly, and take me wholly

V pon your felfe.

Cha. How much you grace your fervant?

King. Let it be fiery quicke. Cha. It shall have wings,

And every feather shew the flight of Kings.

Actus Tertius.

Enter Chancellor attended, the Proctor generall whispering in his care. Two Indges following. They past.

Enter Chabot in his gowne, a gaurd about him, his father and his wife on each side, Allegre.

Adm. A Nd have they put my faithfull servant to the Heaven arme the honest man. (racke,

Fa. Allegre feeles the malice of the Chancellor.

Adm. Many upon the torture have confest Things against truth, and yet his paine sits neerer

Than all my other feares, come don't weepe.

Wife. My Lord, I doe not grive out of a thought,
Or poore suspicion, they with all their malice
Can staine your honour, but it troubles me,
The King should grant this licence to your enemies,
As he were willing to heare Chabot guilty.

Adm.

Adm. No more, the King is just, and by exposing the To this triall, meanes to render me More happy to his subjects, and himselfe His facred will be obey'd, take thy owne spirit, And let no thought in stringe thy peace for me, I goe to have my honours all confirm'd; Farewell thy lip, my cause has so much innocence, It shanot neede thy prayer, I leave her yours Till my returne; oh let me be a some Still in your thoughts, now Gentlemen set forward.

Exis.

Manente Father and Wife.

Fa. See you that trust in greatnesse, what sustaines you, These hazards you must looke for, you that thrust Your heads into a cloud, where lie in ambush The souldiers of state in privy armes Of yellow fire jealous, and mad at all That shoote their foreheads up into their forges, And pry into their gloomy Cabbinets; You like vaine Citizens that must goe see Those ever burning surnaces, wherein Your brittle glasses of estate are blowne; Who knowes not you are all but pusse, and bubble Ofbreath, and sume forg'd, your vile brittle natures Cause of your dearenesse? were you tough and lasting, You would be cheape, and not worth halfe your face, Now daughter Plannet strooke.

Wif. I am confidering
What forme I shall put on, as best agreeing
With my Lords fortune.

Fa. Habit doe you meane, Of minde or body?

Wif. Both wod be apparell'd.

Fa. In neither you have reason yet to mourne.

Wif. Ile not accuse my heart of so much weakenesses.

Twere a confession gainst my Lord. The Queene!

Enter Queene, Constable, Treasurer, Secretary.

She has exprest 'gainst me some displeasure.

Fa. Lets this way through the Gallery.

2 1

Qu.

Qu. Tis she,
Doe you my Lord say I wod speake with her?
And has Allegre, one of chiefest trust with him
Suffered the racker the Chancellor is violent;
And whats confest?

Tre. Nothing, he contemn'd all
That could with any cruelst paine explore him,
As if his minde had rob'd his nerves of sence,
And through them diffus d fiery spirits above
All slesh and blood; for as his limbs were stretch'd,
His contempts too extended.

Qu. A strange fortitude!

Tre. But we shall lose th' arraignement.

Qu. The successe Will soone arrive.

Tre. Youle not appeare, my Lord then?

Con. I defire

Your Lordship wod excuse me.

Tre. We are your servants.

Without a traine of friends and fervants.

Exinat. Tre. & Sec.

Con. She attends you Madam.

Qu. This humblenesse proceedes not from your heart,
Why, you are a Queene your selfe in your owne thoughts,
The Admiralls wife of France cannot be lesse,
You have not state enough, you shold not move

Wif. There is some mystery
Within your language Madam, I woud hope
You have more charitie than to imagine
My present condition worth your triumph,
In which I am not so lost, but I have
Some friends and servants with proportion
To my Lords fortune, but none within the list
Of those that obey mee can be more ready
To expresse their duties, than my heart to serve
Your just commands.

Qu. Then pride will ebbe I see,
There is no constant flood of state, and greatnesse,
The prodigie is ceasing when your Lord

Comes

Comes to the ballance, hee whose blazing fires, Shot wonders through the Kingdome, will discover What flying and corrupted matter fed him.

Wif. My Lord?

Q. Your high and mighty Justicer, The man of conscience, the Oracle Of State, whose honorable titles-Would cracke an Elephants backe, is now turn'd mortall, Must passe examination, and the test Of Law, have all his offices rip dup, And his corrupt foule laid open to the subjects, His bribes, oppressions, and close sinnes that made So many grone, and curfe him, now shall finde Their just reward, and all that love their country, Bleffe heaven, and the Kings Iustice, for removing Such a devouring monster.

Fa. Sir your pardon-

Madam you are the Queene, the is my daughter, And he that you have character'd fo monstrous, My fonne in Law, now gon to be arraign'd, The King is just, and a good man, but't does not Adde to the graces of your royall person To tread upon a Lady thus dejected By her owne griefe, her Lord's not yet found guilty, Much lesse condemn'd, though you have pleas'd to execute Qu. What lawcy fellow's this? (him.

Fa. I must confesse

I am a man out of this element -No Courtier, yet I am a gentleman That dare speake honest truth to the Queenes eare, (A duty every subject wonot pay you) And justifie it to all the world, there's nothing Doth more ecclipse the honours of our soule, Than an ill grounded, and ill followed passion, Let flie with noise, and license against those : Whose hearts before are bleeding.

Con. Brave old man.

Fa. Cause you are a Queene to trample ore a woman,

D 3

Whole

Whose tongue and faculties are all tied up, Strike out a Lyons teeth, and pare his clawes, And then a dwarfe may plucke him by the beard, Tis a gay victory.

Qn, Did you heare my Lord?

Fa. I ha done.

Wif. And it concernes me to beginne,
Ihave not made this pause through servile feare
Or guiltie apprehension of your rage,
But with just wonder of the heates, and wildnesse
Has preposses your nature gainst our innocence,
You are my Queene, unto that title bowes
The humblest knee in France, my heart made lower
With my obedience, and prostrate duty,
Nor have I powers created for my use,
When just commands of you expect their service;
But were you Queene of all the world, or something
To be thought greater, betwixt heaven and us
That I could reach you with my eyes and voyce,
I would shoote both up in defence of my
Abused honour, and stand all your lightning.

Qu. So brave.

Wif. So just and boldly innocent,
I cannot feare arm'd with a noble conscience
The tempest of your frowne, were it more frightfull
Then every sury made a womans anger,
Prepar'd to kill with deaths most horrid ceremony,
Yet with what freedome of my soule I can
Forgive your accusation of my pride.

Qu. Forgive? what insolence is like this language?

Can any action of ours be capable

Of thy forgivenesse? dust! how I dispise thee?

Wif. Yes, and have dont already, and no staine To your greatnesse Madam, tis my charity I can remit, when soveraigne Princes dare Doe in jury to those that live beneath them, They turne worth pitty, and their pray rs, and tis

In the free power of those whom they oppresse
To pardon e'm, each soule has a prerogative,
And priviledge royall that was sign'd by heaven,
But though ith knowledge of my disposition
Stranger to pride, and what you charge me with,
I can forgive the injustice done to me,
And striking at my person, I have no
Commission from my Lord to cleere you for
The wrongs you have done him, and still he pardon
The wounding of his loyaltie, with which life
Can hold no ballance, I must talke just boldnesse
To say

Fa No more, now I must tell you daughter
Least you forget your selfe, she is the Queene,
And it becomes not you to vie with her
Passion for passion, if your Lord stand fast
To the full search of Law, Heaven will revenge him,
And give him up precious to good mens loves
If you attempt by these unruly wayes
To vindicate his justice, Ime against you,
Deere as I wish your husbands life and same,
Suffer are bound to suffer, not contest
With Princes, since their Will and Acts must be Accounted one day to a Judge supreme.

Wif. I ha done, if the devotion to my Lord,
Or pietie to his innocence have led me
Beyond the awfull limits to be observed
By one so much beneath your facred person,
I thus low crave your royall pardon Madam;
I know you will remember in your goodnesse,
My life blood is concerned while his least veine
Shall runne blacke and polluted, my heart sed
With what keepes him alive, nor can there be
A greater wound than that which strikes the life
Of our good name, so much above the bleeding
Of this rude pile wee carry, as the soule
Hath excellence above this earth-borne frailty:
My Lord, by the Kings will is lead already

To a fevere arraignement, and to Iudges,
Will make no tender fearch into his tract
Of life and state, stay but a little while,
And France shall eccho to his shame or innocence,
This suit I begge with teares, I shall have forrow
Enough to heare him censur d soule and monstrous,
Should you sorbeare to antidate my sufferings.

Qu. Your conscience comes about, and you incline To teare he may be worth the lawes condemning. Wif. I sooner will suspect the starres may lose Their way, and cristall heaven returne to Chaos; Truth sits not on her square more firme than he; Yet let me tell you Madam, were his life And action so soule as you have character'd, And the bad world expects, though as a wife Twere duty I should weepe my selfe to death, To know him falne from vertue, yet so much I a fraile woman love my King and Country, Ishould condemne him too, and thinke all honours The price of his lost faith more fatall to me, Than Cleopatra's aspes warme in my bosome, And as much boast their killing.

Qs. This declares

Another foule than was deliver'd me,
My anger melts, and I beginne to pitty her,
How much a Princes eare may be abus'd?
Enjoy your happie confidence, at more leafure
You may heare from us.

Wif. Heaven preserve the Queene, And may her heart be charitable.

Fa. You bleffe and honour your imworthy fervant,

Qu. My Lord, did you observe this? Con. Yes great Madam,

And read a noble spirit, which becomes
The wife of Chabot, their great tie of marriage
Is not more strong upon em, than their vertues.

Qu. That your opinion? I thought your judgement Against the Admirall, doe you thinke him honest?

Con. Religiously, a true, most zealous Patrior, And worth all royall favour.

Qu. You amaze me, all a pit unat on utate ...

Can you be just your selfe then, and advance Your powers against bim?

Con. Such a will be farre

From Montmoranzie, Pioners of state
Have lest no art togaine me to their faction,
And tis my misery to be plac'd in such
A sphere where I am whirl'd by violence
Of a sierce raging motion, and not what
My owne will would encline me. I shall make
This appeare Madam, if you please to second
My free speech with the King.

Qu. Good heaven protect all,

Haste to the King, Iustice her swift wing needes, Tis high time to be good, when vertue bleedes.

Exeunt.

Enter Officers before the Chancellor, Indges, the Proctor generall, whifeering with the Chancellor, they take their places.

To them

Enter Treasurer and Secretary who take their places prepared on one side of the Court.

To them

The Captaine of the Guard, the Admiral following, who is placed at the barre.

Cha. Good Mr. Proctor generall begin.

Pro, It is not unknowne to you my very good Lords the Indges, and indeed to all the world, for I will make short worke, since your honourable eares neede not to be enlarged. If peake by a figure with prolixe ennumeration how infinitly the King hath favoured this ill favoured Traitor; and yet I may worthily too infist and prove that no grace hath teene so large and voluminous, as this, that he hath appointed such upright Judges at this time, and the chiefe of this Triumvirle, our Chancellor by name Poyer, which deriveth from the Greeke his! Etymology from Poyens, which is to make, to create, to invent matter that was never extant in nature, from the whence also is the name and dignitic of Poeta, which I will not infilt upon, in this place, although I am confident his Lordshippe wanteth no facultie in making of Verses: but what addition I fay is it to the honour of this Delinquent, that he hath fuch a ludge, a man to learned, fo full of equity, fo noble, so notable in the progresse of his life, so innocent, in the manage of his office to incorrupt; in the passages of State fo wife, in laffection to his country fo religious, in all his fervices to the King fo fortunate, and exploring, as envie it. felfe cannot accuse, or malice vitiate, whom all lippes will open to commend, but those of Philip; and in their hearts will erect Altars, and Statues, Columnes, and Obelishes, Pillars and Pyramids, to the perpetuitie of his name and memory. What shall I say i but conclude for his so great and sacred fervice, both to our King and Kingdome, and for their everlafling benefit, there may everlastingly be left here one of his loynes, one of his loynes ever remaine I fay, and flay upon this Bench, to bethe example of all Iustice, even while the North and South Starre shall continue.

Cha. You expresse your Oratory Mr. Proctor,

I ray come prefen ly to the matter.

Pro. Thus with your Lordships pardon, I proceede; and the first thing I shall glance at, will be worth your Lordships reflection, his ingratitude, and to whom? to no leffe person than a King, and to what King, his owne, and our generall Soveraigne Prob deum at que hominum fidem; a King, and fuch a King, the health, life, and foule of us all, whose very mention drawes this falt water from my eyes; for hee indeede is our eye, who wakes and watches for us when we fleepe, and who will not fleep: for him, I meane not fleepe, which the Philosophers call, a naturall cessation of the common and confequently of all the exterior fences, canfed first and immediatly by a detention of spirits, which can have to communication, fince the way is obstructed, by which these spirits should commearce, by vapours ascending from the stomacke to the head, by which evaporation the rootes of the nerves are filled, through which the annuall spirits, to be powred into the dwellings of the externall fences; but fleepe I take for death, which all know to be Ultima linea, who will not fleepe eternally for fach a King as wee enjoy? If therefore in generall as hee is King of us all, all fharing and dividing the benefits of this our Soveraigne, noneshould be so ingratefull as once to murmare against him, what shall befaid of the ingraticude more monstrous in this Chabot, for our Francis hath loved, not in generall & in the croud with other fubjects, but particularly this Ph.I. p advanc'd him to the supreme dignicie of a Statiman, lodg'd him in his very heart, vet Monstrum horrendum even to this Francis hath Philip beene ingratefull. Brutus the loved sonne hath Stabbed Cafar with a Bodkin : Oh what brute may be compared to him? and in what particulars may this crime be exemplified; hee hath, as wee fay, chopt Logicke with the King, nay to the very teeth of his Soveraigne advance his owne Gnat-like merits, and justified with Luciferous pride, that his services have deserved more than all the bounty of our Munificent King hath paid him.

Cha. Osferve that my Lords.

Pro. Nay he hath gone further, and most traiterously hath committed outrage and impiety to the Kings owne hand, and royall character, which presented to him in a bill from the whole counsell, hee most violently did teare in peeces, and will doe the very body and person of your King, if our Justice make no timely prevention, and strike out the Serpentine teeth of the high and more than he rible monster.

Tr. This was enforced home.

Pro. In the next place I will relate to your honours his most crue lexactions upon the subject, the old vancurriers of rebellions. In the yeare 25.6. and 37. This oppressour, and this extortioner, under pretext of his due taxation, being Admiral impos'd upon certaine Fishermen, (observe I beseech you the circumstance of their persons, Fishermen) who poore lohns were embarqued upon the cost of Normandy, and fishing there for Herrings (which some siy is the king of Fishes) be impos'd I say twenty sonse, and upon every boate six liners, oh intollerable exaction I enough not onely to alienate the hearts of these miserable people from their King, which spot salto is high treason, but an occasion of a greater inconvenience.

ence, for Want of due provision of fish among the subjects, for by this might ensue a necessitie of mortall sins, by breaking the religious fast upon Vigils, Embers, and other dayes commanded by facred authority, besides the miserable rut that would follow, and perhaps contagion, when feasing and flesh should be licenced for every carnall appetite. — I could urge many more particulars of his dangerous insatiate and boundlesse Avarice, but the improvement of his estate in so few yeares, from a private Gentlemans fortune, to a great Dukes revenewes, might save our soveraigne therein an Orator to enforce and prove faulty even to gyantisme against heaven.

ludg. This is but a noise of words.

Pro. To the foule outrages fo violent, let us adde his Com? mission's granted out of his owne presum'd authoritie, his Majestie neither infround or respected his disloyalties, infidelities, contempts, oppressions, extortions, with innumerable abuses, offences, and forfeits, both to his Majesties most royall person, crowne, and dignitie, yet notwithstanding all these injustices, this unmarchable, un just delinquent affecteth to be thought inculpable, and incomparable just; but alas my most learned Lord, none knowes better than your felves, how easie the sinceritie of Iustice is pretended, how hard it is to be performed, and how common it is for him that hath least colour of title to it, to be thought the very fubflance and foule of it, he that was never true scholler in the least degree, longs as a woman with child to be great with scholler she that was never with child longs Omnibm vis & modis to be got with child, and will weare a cushion to seeme with child, and hee that was never just, will fly in the Kings face to be counted just, though for all he be nothing, but just, a Traytor.

Sec. The Admirall fmiles.

Ind. Answer your selfe my Lord.

Adm. I shall, and briefely,

The furious eloquence of my accuser hath Branch'd my offences hainous to the King, And then his subject, a most vast indictment, That to the King I have justified my merit, And services; which conscience of that truth,

That gave my actions life when they are questioned, I ought to urge agen, and doe without The least part of injustice; for the Bill A foule, and most unjust one, and prefer'd Gainst the Kings honour, and his subjects priviledge, And/with a policie to betray my office, And faith to both, I doe confesse I tore it, It being prest immodestly, but without A thought of disobedience to his name, To whose mention I bow, with humble reverence, And dare appeale to the Kings knowledge of me, How farre I am in foule from such a rebell, For the rest my Lord, and you my honour'd Judges, Since all this mountaine all this time in labour With more than mortall fury gainst my life, Hath brought forth nought but some ridiculous vermine, I will not wrong my right, and innocence, With any ferious plea in my reply, To frustrate breath, and fight with terrible shaddow That have beene forg'd, and forc'd against my state, But leave all, with my life to your free centures; Onely beseeching all your learned judgements Equall and pions conscience to weigh.

Pro. And how this great and mighty fortune hath exalted him to pride is apparant, not onely in his braves and bearings to the King, the fountaine of all this increase, but in his contempt and fcome of the subject, his vall expences in buildings, his private bounties, above royall to souldiers and schollers, that he may be the Generall and Patron, and protector of armes and arts; the number of domesticke attendants, an army of Grashoppers and gay Butterslies able to devoure the Spring; his glorious wardrobes, his stable of horses that are prick'd with provender, and will enforce us to weede up our Vineyards to sow Oates for supply of their provision, his caroches shining with gold, and more bright than the chariot of the Sunne, wearing out the pavements; nay, he is of late so transcendently proud, that men must be his Males, and carry him up and downe as it were in a Procession for men to gaze at him till their chines crackes with the weight of his infupportable pride, and who knowes but this may prove a fashion? But who grones for this? the subject, who murmure, and are ready to beginne a rebellion, but the tumultuous saylers, and water-rais, who some up and downe the citie, like an overbearing tempest, cursing the Admirall, who in duty ought to undoe himself for the generall satisfaction of his countrymen.

E 3

Adm. The varietie, and wonder now presented To your most noble notice, and the worlds, That all my life and actions, and offices, Explor'd with all the hundred eyes of Law Lighted with lightning, shot out of the wrath Of an incenst, and commanding King, And blowne with foes, with farre more bitter windes, Then Winter from his Easterne cave exhaites, Yeh nothing found, but what you all have heard, And then consider if a peere of State, Should be expos'd to such a wild arraignement. For poore complaints, his fame, faith, life, and honours Rackt for no more.

Cha. No more? good heaven, what fay My learned affiftants.

In. My Lord, the crimes urg'd here for us to censure As capitall, and worth this high arraignement. To me seeme strange, because they doe not fall. In sorce of Law, to arraigne a Peere of State, For all that Law can take into her power. To sentence, is the exaction of the Fishermen.

2 In. Here is no majesty violated, I consent to what my Brother has expreft.

Cha, Breake then in wonder,
My frighted words out of their forming powers,
That you no more collect, from all these forfeits
That Mr. Proctor generall hath opened,
With so apparant, and impulsive learning,
Against the rage and madnesse of the offender,
And violate Majestie (my learned affistants)
When Majesties affronted and desied,

It being compar'd with ? and in such an onset As leap'd into his throate? his life affrighting?

Be justified in all infolence, all fibiode Be justified in all insolence, all subjects If this be so considered, and insult Vpon your priviledg'd malice, is not Majestie Poylon'd in this wonder ! and no felony fet Where royaltie is rob'd, and Fie how it fights with Law, and grates upon Her braine and foule, and all the powers of Reason, Reporter of the processe, shew the sedule. No. Here my good Lord.

1. No altering it in us.

3. Farrebeit from lis Sirely business solov on word saisset

Cha. Heres filken Inflice, the most bib and of the It might be altered, mend your fentences.

Both. Not wee my Lord.

Cha. Not you? The King shall know You flight a duty to his will, and fafety, Give me your pen, it mult be capitall.

1. Make what you please my Lord, our doome shall stand. Cha. Thus I subscribe, now at your perils follow. Both. Perills my Lord? threases in the Kings free justice?

Tre, I am amaz'd they can be to remitte Sec. Mercifull men, pittifull Iudges certaine.

r. Subscribe it matters nothing being constrain'd On this fide, and on this fide, this capital I, Both which together put, import plaine Vi; And witnesse we are fore'd.

a. Enough,
It will acquit us when we make it knowne,
Our names are forc'd.
Cha. If traiterous pride
Vpon the royall person of a King. 2. Enough,

Were sentenc'd unfelloniously before, Ile burne my Bookes and be a Judge no more. Both. Here are our hands subscrib'd. Cha, Why fo, it joyes me,

Piery

You have reformed your justice and your judgement,

Now have you done like Judges and learned Lawyers, The King shall thanke, and honour you for this. Notary read.

No. We by his facred Majestie appointed Judges, upon due triall, and examination Of Philip Chabot Admiratt of France Declare him guiltie of high treasons, &c.

Cha. Now Captaine of the gaurd, secure his person, Till the King signifie

His pleasure for his death, this day is happy
To France, thus reskued from the vile devourer.

A shoute within

Harke how the votes applaud their bleft deliverance,
You that so late did right and conscience boast,
Heavens mercy now implore, the Kings is lost,

Exeum:

Actus Quartus.

Enter King, Queene, and Constable.

And you my Lord, unire your force to pleade

Ith' Admiralls behalfe, this is not that

Language you did expresse, when the torne Bill

Was late pretended to us, it was then

Desiance to our high prerogative,

The act of him whose proud heart would rebell

And arm'd with faction, too soone attempt

To teare my crowne off.

Qu. I was ignorant
Then of his worth, and heard but the report
Of his accusers, and his enemies,
Who never mention in his character
Shadowes of any vertue in those men,
They would depresse like Crowes, and carrion birds,
They sly ore flowrie Meades, cleare Springs, faire Cardens,
And stoope at carcases; for your owne honour

Pitty

La vod tonovisi

Pitty poore Chabot,

What could so lately straddle ore a Province, Can he be fallen so low, and miserable, To want my pitty, who breakes forth like day, Takes up all peoples eyes, and admirations It cannot be, he hath a Princely wife too.

With unbecomming importunitie,
To ferve the profitable ends of others
Conscience, and duty to your selfe inforce
My present mediation, you have given
The health of your owne state away, unlesse
Wisedome in time recover him.

King. If he proove

No adulterate gold, triall confirmes his value.

Qu. Although it hold in mettle gracious Sir,
Such fiery examination, and the furnace
May walt a heart thats faithfull, and together
With that you call the feees, something of
The precious substance may be hazarded.

King. Why, you are the chiefe engine rais'd against him
And in the worlds Creede labour most to finke him,
That in his fall, and absence every beame
May shine on you, and onely guild your fortune,
Your difference is the ground of his arraignement,
Nor were we unfollicited by you,
To have your bill confirm'd, from that that spring
(ame all these mighty and impetuous waves,
With which he now must wrattle, if the strength
Of his owne innocence can breake the storme,
Truth wonot lose her servant, her wings cover him,
He must obey his fate.

Con. I would not have
It lie upon my fame, that I should be
Mentioned in Story his unjust supplanter
For your whole Kingdome, I have beene abused,
And made beloeve my suite was just and necessary,

My

My walkes have not beene safe, my closet prayers,
But some plot has pursued me, by some great ones
Against your noble Admirall, they have frighted
My fancy into my dreames with their close whispers,
How to uncement your affections,
And render him the fable, and the scorne
Of France.

Qu. Brave Montmorancie, King. Are you serious.

My selfe your creatures dignified and honor'd
By your high favours with an equal truth,
I must declare the justice of your Admirall
(In what my thoughts are conscious) and will rather Give up my claime to birth, title, and offices,
Be throwne from your warme smile, the top and crowne
Of subjects happinesse, then be brib'd with all
Their glories to the guilt of Chabots ruine.

King. Come, come, you over at this passion, And if it be not pollicie it tasts Too greene, and wants some counsell to mature it,

His fall prepares your triumph.

My shame alive, and buried will corrupt
My very dust, make our house-genious grone,
And fright the honest marble from my ashes:
His fall prepare my triumph? turne me first
A naked exile to the world.

Take heede you banish not your selfe, be wise, And let not too much zeale devoure your reason. Enter Asall.

As Coone dispatch'd, as a common subject.

Qu. No mercy then for Chaber.

Enter Wife and Father.

Wif. From whence came
That found of Chabote then we are all undone:
Oh doe not heare the Queene, she is no friend
To my poore Lord, but made against his life,
Which hath too many enemies already.

Con. Poore foule, thee thinkes the Queene is still against Who employeth all her powers to preserve him. (him,

Fa. Say you so my Lord? daughter the Queen's our friend. wif. Why doe you mocke my forrow! can you flatter

Your owne griefe so, be just, and heare me fir,

And doe not facrifice a subjects blood

To appeale a wrathfull Queene, let mercy thine Vpon your brow, and heaven will pay it backe Vpon your soule, be deafe to all her prayers.

King. Poore heart, the knowes not what the has defir'd.

wif. I begge my Chab es life, my forrowes yet

Have not destroid my reason.

King. He is in the power of my Lawes, not mine.

Wif. Then you have no power,
And are but the emptie shadow of a King,
To whom is it resign'd? where shall I begge
The forfeit life of one condemn'd by Lawes
To partiall doome?

King. You heare he is condemn'd then?

King. You know for what too.

Fa. What the Indges please to call it, But they have given t a name, Treason they say.

Qu. I must not be denied.

King. I must deny you.

Wif. Be blest for ever fort.

Qu. Grant then to her.

King. Chabot condemn'd by law?

Fa. But you have power
To change the rigor, in your breast there is
A Chancellor above it, I nere had
A suite before, but my knees joyne with hers

To

To implore your royall mercy to her Lord, And take his cause to your examination, It cannot wrong your ludges, if they have Beene steer'd by conscience.

Con. It will fame your Inflice.

King. I cannot be prescrib'd, you kneele in vaine, You labour to betray me with your teares
To a treason above his, gainst my owne Lawes,
Looke to the Lady———

Excunt,

Enter Afall.

Af. Sir the Chancellor, King, Admit him, leave us all. Enter Chancellor.

How now my Lord ?

You have lost no time, and how thrive the proceedings.

Cha. Twas fit my gracious Soveraigne, time should leave

His motion made in all affaires beside, And spend his wings onely in speed of this.

King. You have shew'd diligence, and whats become
Of our most curious lusticer, the Admiral!?

Cha. Condemn'd fir utterly, and all hands fet

To his conviction,

King, And for faults most foule?

Cha, More than most impious, but the applausive iffue.
Strooke by the concourse of your ravish'd subjects
For joy of your free Iustice, if there were
No other cause to assure the sentence just

Were proofe convincing.

King. Now then he sees clearly
That men perceive how vaine his Justice was,
And scorne him for the soolish net be wore
To hide his nakednesse; ist not a wonder
That mens ambitions should so blinde their reason.
To affect shapes of honesty, and take pride
Rather in seeming, then in being just.

Cha. Seeming has better fortune to attend it.
Then being found at heart, and vertuous.

King. Professe all ? nothing doe, like those that live

By looking to the Lamps of holy Temples,
Who still are busic taking off their sources,
But for their profit sake will adde no oyle;
So these will checke and sentence every same,
The blaze of riotous blood doth cast in others,
And in themselves leave the same most offensive,
But he to doe this? more deceives my judgement
Than all the rest whose nature I have sounded.

Cha, I know Sir, and have prov'd it.

King. Well my Lord

To omit circumliance, I highly thanke you For this late service you have done me here, Which is so great and meritorious

That with my ablest power I scarce can quit you.

Cha. Your sole acceptance (my dread soveraigne)

I more rejoyce in, than in all the fortunes
That ever chanc'd me, but when may it please
Your Highnesse to order the execution?
The haste thus farre hath spar'd no pinions.

King. No my Lord, your care Hath therein much deferv'd.

(ba. But where proportion Is kept toth' end in things, at start so happy

That end fet on the crowne.

King. Ile speede it therefore.

Cha. Your thoughts direct it, they are wing'd. Exit.
King. I joy this boldnesse is condemn'd, that I may pardon.

And therein get fome ground in his opinion. By fo much bounty as faves his life.

And me thinks that weigh'd more, should sway the ballance.
Twixt me and him, held by his owne free Instice,
For I could never finde him obstinate
In any minde he held, when once he saw

Th' error with which he laboured, and fince now He needs must feele it, lad mit no doubt,

But that his alteration will beget

Another sence of things twi at him and me; Whose there ! Enter Asall.

F 3

Goe

Goe to the Captaine of my guard, and will him To attend his condemn'd prisoner to me instantly.

As. I shall fir. Enver Treasurer & Secretary.

King. My Lords, you were spectators of our Admirall.

Tre. And hearers too of his most just conviction,

In which we witnest over-weight enough
In your great bounties, and as they there were weigh'd

With all the feathers of his boalted merits.

King. Has felt a scorching triall, and the test
(That holds fires utmost force) we must give mettalls. That will not with the hammer, and the melting. Confesse their truth, and this same sence of seeling. (Being ground to all the sences) hath one key. More than the rest to let in through them all. The mindes true apprehension, that thence takes. Her first convey d intelligence. Hong. To see this man of confidence agen:
How thinke you Lords, will Chabet looke on mee, Now spoild of the integrity, he boasted?

Sec. It were too much honour to vouchfafe your fight.

Tr. No doubt my Leigh, but he that hath offended
In such a height against your crowne and person,

Will want no impudence to looke upon you. Enter Afall, Captaine, Admirall.

Cap. Sir, I had charge given me by this Gentleman To bring your conde no'd prisoner to your presence.

King, You have done well, and tell the Queene, and our Lord Contable we defire their presence, bid Our Admiralls Lady, and her father too Attend us here, they are but new withdrawne.

Af. I shall fir !

Tre. Doe you observe this confidence?
He stands as all his triall were a dreame.

Sec. Hele finde the horrow waking the King's troubled; Now for a thunder-clap: the Queene and Constable. Enter Queene, Constable, Wife and Father,

Tr. I doe not like their mixing.
King, My Lord Admirall,

You

You made it your desire to have this trial!
That late hath past upon you;
And now you seele how vaine is too much faith
And slattery of your selfe, as if your brest
Were proofe gainst all invasion, tis so slight
You see it lets in death, whats past, hath beene
To satisfie your insolence, there remaines
That now we serve our owne free pleasure, therefore
By that most absolute power, with which all right
Puts in my hands, these issues turnes, and changes,
There in eare of all these, pardon all
Your faults and forfeits, whatsoever sensur'd,
Againe advancing, and establishing
Your person in all sunesses whatsoever sensur'd,
That ever you enjoy'd before th' attainder.

Tre. Wonderfull pardon'd!
Wif. Heaven preserve the King.

Qu. Who for this will deserve all time to honour him.

Con. And live Kings best example.

Fa. Sonne yare pardon'd,

Be inre you looke hereafter well about you.

Adm. Vouchfafe great Sir to assure me what you said,

You nam'd my pardon.

King. And agen declare it, For all crimes past, of what nature soever.

Adm. You cannot pardon me Sir.

King. How's that Philip?

Adm. It is a word carries too much relation To an offence, of which I am not guilty, And I must still be bold where truth still armes, In spight of all those frownes that would deject me To say I neede no pardon.

King. Ha, howesthis?

Fa. Hees mad with over-joy, and aniwers nonfence.
King. Why, tell me Chabot, are not you condemn'd?

Adm. Yes, and that justifies me much the more,

For whatforver false report hath brought you, I was condemn'd for nothing that could reach

To prejudice my life, my goods or honour, As first in firmenesse of my conscience, I confidently told you, not alas Prefuming on your flender thred of favour, Or pride of fortunate and courtly boldnesse, But what my faith and justice bade me trust too, For none of all your learned affiltant Judges, With all the malice of my crimes could urge, Or feleny or hart of facred power.

King. Doe any heare this, but my felfe? My Lords, This man still justifies his innocence, What prodigies are thefe ? have not our Lawes Palt on his actions, have not equal Iudges Certified his arraignement, and him guilty Of capitall Treason? and yet doe I heare Chabot accuse all these, and quit himselfe.

Tr. It does appeare distraction fir.

King. Did we

Seeme so indulgent to propose our free And royall pardon without fuite or prayer, To meete with his contempt?

Sec. Vahear'd of impudence!

Ad. I were malicious to my selfe, and desperate To force untruths upon my foule, and when Tis cleare, to confesse a shame to exercise Your pardon fir, were I fo foule and monstrous As I am given to you, you would commit A finne next mine, by wronging your owne mercy To let me draw out impious breath, it will Release your wonder, if you give command To fee your processe, and if it prove other Than I presume to informe, teare me in peeces.

King. Goe for the Processe, and the Chancellor, With the affiftant ludger. I thanke heaven That with all these inforcements of diffraction My reason stayes so c'eare to heare, and answer. And to direct a meffage. This invertion Of all the loyalties, and true deferts

That I beleev'd I govern'd with, till now In my choice Lawyers, and chiefe Counfellors Is able to shake all my frame of reason.

Adm. I am much griv'd, ha mor ved b'eru docor flations King. No more, I documeline
To thinke I am abus'd, my Lawes betraid And wrested to the purpose of my Judges. This confidence in Chabot turnes my judgement, This was too wilde away to make his merits Stoope and acknowledge my laperiot bounties, That it doth raife, and fixe e'm past my art, To shadow all the shame and forfeits mine. Enter Afall, Chancellor, Indges.

Af. The Chancellor and Judges Sir.

Tre. I like not

This passion in the King, the Queene and Constable Are of that fide.

King. My Lord, you dare appeare then?

Cha. Dare Sir, Thope.

King. Well done, hope still, and tell me, Is not this man condemn'd?

Cha. Strange question Sir,

The processe will declare it, sign'd with all These my affistant brothers reverend hands To his conviction in a publike triall.

King. You faid for foule and monstrous facts prov'd by life

Cha. The very words are there fir.

King. But the deedes

I looke for fir, name me but one thats monstrous?

Cha. His foule comparisons, and affronts of you, To me feem'd monstrous.

King. I told you them fir,

Nor were they any that your so vast knowledge, Being a man studied in him, could produce

And prove as cleare as heaven, you warranted

To make appeare fuch treasons in the Admirall, gain him W.

As never all Lawes, Volumes yet had fentene'd, A And France should looke on, having scap'd with wonder

What in this nature hath beene cleerely prov'd In his arraignement.

1. Nothing that we heard

In flendre ft touch urg'd by your Advocate.

King. Dare you affirme this too?

2. Most confidently.

King, No base corruptions charg'd upon him.

I. None fir.

Tr. This argues Chabot has corrupted him.

Sec. I doe not like this.

T. The fumme of all

Wasurg'd to prove your Admirall corrupt, Was an exaction of his officers, Of twenty foufe taken from the Fishermen

For every boate, and that fish'd the Normand coast.

King. And was this all The mountaines, and the marvells promist me, To be in cleere proofe made against the life.

Of our so hated Admirall,

Ind. All fir,

V pon our lives and consciences.

Cha. I amblasted.

King. How durft you then subscribe to his conviction.

1. For threats by my Lord Chancellor on the Bench, Affirming that your Majestie would have it Made capitall treason, or account us traitors.

2. Yet fir, we did put to our names with this Interpolition of a note in fecret In these two letters U, and I, to shew Wee were enfore'd to what we did, which then In Law is nothing.

Fa. How doe you feele your Lordship, Did you not finde some stuffing in your head. Your braine should have beene purg'd.

Cha. I fall to peeces,

Would they had rotted on the Bench.

King. And fo you fav'd the peace of that high Court. Which otherwise his impious rage had broken.

But thus am I by his malicious arts.

A parly rendred, and most tyrannous spurre To all the open course of his base envice, A forcer of my Judges, and a thirst Of my nobilities blood, and all by one, I trusted to make cleere my love of Instice.

Cha. Ibefeech your Majestie, let all myzeale To ferve your vertues, with a facted value Made of your royall state, to which each least But shade of violence in any subject the and and managed but A Doth provoke certaine death, me share more versual

King. Death on thy name And memory for ever, one command Our Advocate attend us presently.

As. He waites here.

Cha. Homencofmy folia: King. But fingle death shall not excuse, thy skinne Torne ore thine cares, and what elfe can be inflicted If thy life with the same severity Diffected cannot stand so many fires.

Sec. Tre. Be mercifull great Sir. who or sould am azwol King. Yet more amaze? and daily blow son listante Is there a knee in all the world befide That any humane conscience can let bow For him, yare traitors all that pitty him.

Tr. This is no time to move. King. Yet twas my fault

To trust this wretch, whom I knew fierce and proud With formes of tongue and learning, what a priloner Is pride of the whole flood of man? for as A humane feede is faid to be a mixture And faire contemperature extracted from All our best faculties, so the seede of all Mans sensuall frailty, may be said to abide, And have their confluence in onely pride, It stupifies mans reason so, and dulls True sence of any thing, but what may fall In his owne glory, quenches all the spirits That light a man to honour and true goodnesse; you lie all

Af. Your Advocate. Surer Advocate milen 2A

King. Come hither. Adv. My most gracious Soveraigne. Adm. Madam you infinitely oblige our duty Qu. I was too long ignorant of your worth my Lord; And this fweete Ladies vertues of you arral a strong es ballets I W.f. Both your fervants, sich is 14 mov dessiedt a Adm. I never had a feare of the Kings Iustice, And yet I Know not what creepes ore my heart, And leaves an ice beneath ice my bord Chanceller, but all You have my forgivenesse, but implore heavens pardon soci For wrongs to equall justice, you shall want No charitie of mine to mediate on and and tot Cha. Horrour of my foule to son astiny off . A. Confounds my graticudes to the finesh appired . will Con. To me now most welcome. Adv. It was my allegiance fir, I did enforce, But by directions of your Chancellor, It was my office to advance your cause and and sell sell Gainst all the world, which when I leave to execute, Flea me, and turne me out a most raw Advocate. 19 12/13 King. You fee my Chancellor. Adv. He has an ill looke with him. King. It shall be your province now, on our behalfs. Tourge what can in justice be against him, His riot on our Lawes, and corrupt actions Will give you tope and field enough, Adv. And I Will play my law prize, never feare it fir, He shall be guilty of what you please, I am studied In him fir, I will squeeze his villances, And urge his acts to whom into his bowells, The force of it shall make him hang himselfe. And fave the Lawes a labour. King, Indges, for all The poisonous outrage, that this viper spile On all my royali freedome and my Empire, As making all but lervants to his malice,

I will have you revise the late arraignement, And for those worthy reasons, that already Affect you for my Admiralls acquirall
Employ your justice on this Chancellor, away with him, Arrest him Captaine of my guard to answer All that due course of Law against him can Charge both his Acts and life.

Cap. I doe arrest thee and the present to whown V Poyet Lord Chancellor in his Highnesse name, To answer all that equal confe of Law Can charge thy afts and life with.

Cha. I Obey.

Cha. I Obey.

King. How false a heart corruption has how base Without true worth are all thefe earth-bred glories? Oh bleffed justice, by which all things stand, That stills the thunder, and makes lightning finke Twixt earth and heaven amaz'd, and cannot ftrike, Being prov'd fo now in wonder of this man, will be wen to a The object of mens hare and heavens bright love shird of I And as in cloudy dayes, we fee the Sunne Glide over turrets, temples, richest, fields, All those left darke, and flighted in his way, And on the wretched phight of fome poore fhed, Powres all the glories of his golden heads So heavenly vertue, on this envied Lord, Points all his graces, that I may dinftinguish Him better from the world. A fijW 33

Tre. You doe him right.

King. But away Judges, and purfue the arraignement Of this polluted Chancellor with that fwiftnesse, His fury wing'd against my Admirall, it to enfeit od A And be you all, that fate on him compurgators Of me against this false Iudge.

Jud. We are fo.

King. Be you two joyn'd in the commission, And nothing urg'd but justly, of me learning This one more lesson out of the events Of these affaires now past, that whatsever

Charge

Charge or Commission Indges have from us,
They ever make their ayme ingenuous Iustice,
Not partiall for reward, or swelling favour,
To which if your King steere you, spare to obey;
For when his troubled blood is cleere, and calme,
He will repent that he pursued his rage,
Before his pious Law, and hold that Iudge
Vnworthy of his place, that lets his censure
Flote in the waves of an imagin'd favour,
This shipwracks in the haven, and but wounds
Their consciences that sooth the soone et b'd humours
Of their incensed King.

Con. Tre. Royall and facred.

King. Come Philip, thine thy honour now for ever, For this thort temporall ecclipse it suffer'd By th' interpos'd defire I had to try thee, Nor let the thought of what is past affict thee, For my unkindnesse, live still circled here, The bright intelligence of our royall spheere.

Excust

Adus Quintus.

Enter Queene, Conftable, Father.

Qn. The Admirall ficke?

Fa. With danger at the heart,

I came to tell the King.

Con. He never had

More reason in his soule, to entertaine All the delights of health.

Fa. I feare my Lord,
Some apprehension of the Kings unkindnesse,
By giving up his person, and his offices
To the Lawes gripe and fearch, is ground of his Sad change, the greatest foules are thus oft wounded,
If he vouchsafe his presence, it may quicken
His fast decaying spirits, and prevent

The

To

The halty ebbe of life.

Qu. The King is now

Fraught with the joy of his fresh preservation,

The newes so violent, let into his eare,

May have some dangerous effect in him,

I wod not counsell fir to that.

Fa. With greater reason

I may suspect they'le spread my Lord, and as
A river left his curl'd and impetuous waves
Over the bankes, by confluence of streames
That fill and swell her channell, for by this time
He has the addition of Allegres suffering,
His honest servant, whom I met though seeble
And worne with torture, going to congratulate His Masters sascie.

Qu. It seemes he much
Affected that Allegre,

Con. There will be
But a fad interview and dialogue.

Qu. Does he keepe his bed?

Fa. Inthat alone

He shewes a fortitude, he will move, and walke. He sayes while his owne strength or others can Support him, withing he might stand and looke His destiny in the sace at the last summon, Not sluggishly exhaile his soule in bed, With indulgence, and nice flattery of his limbs.

Qu. Can he in this shew spirit, and want force

To wrastle with a thought?

F4. Oh Madam, Madam,
We may have proofe against the sword, and tyranny
Of boysterous warre that threatens us, but when
Kings froune, a Cannon mounted in each eye,
Shoote death to apprehension, ere their fire
And force approach us.

Enter King,

Con. Here sthe King.

Qn. No words

To interrupt his quiet.

The

Fa. Ile begon then.	II'
King. Our Admiralls father! call him backe.
Ou. I wanot fray to hearde m.	11.
Con. Sir. be prindent: 2759 213 0301 191/43/017 01 83W30 3	12.1
And doe not for your fonne fright the Kings health? Val Es	rit.
King. What, ha they left us? how does my Admirall?	37.1
Fa. I am forbid to tell you fir.
King Rumbarn the and the state of the state	mil
Fa. The Queene and my Lord Constable.	TA.
Fa. The Queene and my Lord Constable. And the King. Are there and the production of the constable and the second and the secon	49
Remaining feedes of faction? have they foules
Not yet convinc'd ith truth of Chabets honour,	211
Cleare as the christall heaven, and bove the reach	- :11
Ofimitation, STARRIGUES OF SHORE STARRING BUTOW L	DA.
Fa. Tis their care of you.	elli
And no thought prejudiciall to my fonne.)
King Their care of me?	1048
How can the knowledge of my Admiralls stare	3
Concerne their feares of me, lice their envie	23.75.4
Of Chabots happinesse, whose joy to be 2022 31 2001	1
Rendr'd fo pure and genuine to the world	5
Doth grate upon their confeience and attright em:	30
But let'em vexe, and bid my Chabot Itill	30
Exalt his heart, and triumph, he shall have	qu.
The accesse of ours, the kingdome shall put on the state of the state	4.2.
Such loves for him as the would bolt to celebrate	OIX
Her owne escape from ruine.
Fa. He is not in state to heare my sad newes
I perceive.	in
King. That countenance is not right, it does not answe	•
What I expect,	2 1.1
Say, how is my Admirall?	7
The truth upon thy life.
Fa. To secure his, I would you had,
King Ha? Who durst oppose him?
Fa. One that hath power enough hath practifed on hi	D)
And made his great heart stoope.	7
King. I will revenge it
	Vitl

With crushing, crushing that rebellious power to nothing, Name him.

Fa. He was his friend.

King. A friend to malice, his owne blacke impoltume Burne his blood up, what mischiefe hath ingendred New Stormes?

Fa. Tis the old tempelt. King. Did not we

Appeale all horrors that look'd wilde upon him? Fa. You dreft his wounds I must confesse, but made No cure, they bleede a fresh, pardon me fir, Although your conscience have clos'd too soone, He is in danger, and doth want new furgerie Though he be right in fame, and your opinion, He thinkes you were unkinde.

King. Alas poore Chabas,

Doth that afflict him.

Fa. So much, though he strive With most resolv'd and Adamantine nerves, As ever humane fire in flefh and blood, Forg'd for example, to beare all, so killing The arrowes that you fhot were (still your pardon) No Centaures blood could rancle fo.

King. If this

th

Be all, ile cure him, Kings retaine

More Balsome in their soule then hurt in anger.

Fa. Farre thort fir, with one breath they uncreate, And Kings with onely words more wounds can make ... Then all their kingdome made in balme can heale, Tis dangerous to play to wilde a descant On numerous vertue, though it become Princes To affure their adventures made in every thing, Goodnesse confin d within poore flesh and blood, Hath but a queazie and ftill fickly ftare, A me horiging our A muficall hand should onely pla you her Fluent as Tyre, yet every touch command. 1100 a 23 12 11100 Commend us to the Admirall, and say,

The King will vifite him, and bring health.

Fa. I will not doubt that bleffing, and shall move
Nimbly with this command.

Exeunt

Enter Officers before, Treasurer, Secretary, and Indges, attended by Petitioners, the Advocate also with many papers in his hand, they take their places.

The Chancellor with a guard, and plac'd at the Barre!
Tre. Did you believe the Chancellor had beene

So foule?

Sec. Hee's loft toth' people, what contempts. They throw upon him? but we must be wife.

I Ind. Were there no other guilt, his malice shew'd.

V pon the Admirall, in orebearing justice,

Would well deserve a fentence.

Tre. And a deepe one.

Was specially commended by the King, As being most blemish to his royall person, And the free justice of his state.

Tre. Already
He has confest upon his examinations
Enough for feature, yet to obey forme

Mr. Advocate if you pleafe -

Adv. I am ready for your Lordships: It hath beene said, and will be said agen, and may truely be justified, Omnia exlite fieri. It was the position of Philosophers, and now proved by a more Phylosophysost sect, the Lawyers, that Omnia exlite fiant, we are all made by Law, made I say, and worthily if we be just, if we be unjust, marr'd, though in marring some; there is necessitic of making others, for if one sail by the Law, tenne to one but another is exalted by the execution of the Law, fince the corruption of one must conclude the generation of another, though not alwayes in the same profession; the corruption of an Apothecary, may be the generation of a Doctor of Physicke; the corruption of a Citizen may beger a Courtier, & a Courtier may very well beger an Alderman, the corruption of an Alderman may be the generation of a Country Justice, whose corrupting norance easily may beger a tumule, a tumule may beget a Captaine, and the corruption of a Captaine may beget a Gentleman-Viher, and a Gentleman-Viher may beget a Lord, whose wit may beget a Poet, and a Poet may get a thousand pound a yeare, but nothing without corruption.

Tre. Good Mr. Advocate be pleased to leave all digreffions, and speake of the Chancellor.

Adv. Your Lordship doth very seasonably premonish, and I shall not neede to leave my subject corruption, while I difcourse of him, who is the very ferme and stigian abifle of it, five thousand and odde hundred foule and impious corruptions, for I will be briefe; have beene found by feverall examinations, and by oathes prov'd against this odious and polluted Chancelor, a man of forainted, and contagious a life, that it is a miracle any man enjoyeth his nostrills, that hath lived within the fent of his offices; he was borne with teeth in his head, by an affidavit of his Midwife, to note his devouring, and hath one toe on his left foote crooked, and in the forme of an Eagles talon, to foretell his rapacitie: What shall I say? branded, mark'd, and defign'd in his birth for thame and obloquie, which appeareth further by a mole under his right eare, with only three Witches haires int, strange and ominous predictions of nature.

With this intelligence, for as I remember
Your tongue was guilty of no such character,
When hee sat Judge upon the Admirall,
A pious incorrupt man, a faithfull and fortunate
Servant to his King, and one of the greatest Honours that ever the Admirall received, was
That he had so noble and just a Judge, this must Imply a strange volubilitie in your tongue, or Conscience, I speake not to discountenance any Evidence for the King, but to put you in minde,
Mr. Advocate that you had then a better opinion
Of my Lord Chancellor.

Adv. Your Lordship hath most aprly interpos'd, and with a word I shall easily satisfie all your judgements; He was then a Judge, and in Cathedra, in which he could not erre ; it may be your Lordships cases, out of the chaire and seate of Instice, he hath his frailties, is loos'ed and expos'd to the conditions of other humane natures; so every Judge, your Lordships are not ignorant, bath a kinde of priviledge while he is in his state. office and being, and although hee may quoad fe, internally and privately be guilty of bribery of luffice, yet quoad nos, and in publike he is an upright and innocent Judge, we are to take no notice, nay, we deferved to fuffer, if wee should detect or Staine him; for in that we disparage the Office, which is the Kings, and may be our owne, but once remov'd from his place by just dishonour of the King, he is no more a Judge hut a common person, whom the law takes hold on, and wee are then to forget what hee hath beene, and without partialitie to strip and lay him open to the world, a counterfeit and corrupt Judge, as for example, hee may and ought to flourish in his greatnesse, and breake any mans necke, with as much facilitie as a jeast, but the case being altered, and hee downe, every subject shall be heard, a Wolfe may be appareld in a Lambskinne; and if every man should be afraid to speake truth, nay. and more than truth, if the good of the subject which are clients sometime require it, there would be no remove of Officers, if no remove no motions, if no motion in Court no heate. and by confequence but cold Termes; take away this moving, this removing of ludges, the Law may bury it felfe in Buckram, and the kingdome fuffer for want of a due execution; and now I hope your Lordships are satisfied.

Tre. Most learnedly concluded to acquit your selfe.

I Ind. Mr. Advocate, please you to urge for satisfaction Of the world, and clearing the Kings honour, how Injustly he proceeded against the Admirall.

flowers, and indeede the best flower in our garden. Having used all wayes to circumvent his innocence by suborning and promising rewards to his betrayers, by compelling others by the cruelty of tortures, as namely. Mounsieur Allegre a most homest and faithfull servant to his Lord, teating and extending his sinewes upon the racke to force a confession to his purpose, and finding nothing prevaile upon the invincible vertue of the Admirall.

Sec. How he would flatter him?

Adv. Yet most maliciously proceeded to arraigne him; to be short against all colour of Justice condemn'd him of high treasons; oh thinke what the life of man is, that can never be recompenced; but the life of a just man, a man that is the vigour and glory of our life and nation to be torne to death, and facrifis'd beyond the mallice of common persecution. What Tiger of Hercanian breede could have beene so cruell? but this is not all? he was not guilty onely of murder, guilty I may fay In foro cosctienie, though our good Admirall was miraculously preferv'd, but unto this he added a most prodigious & fearefull rape, a rape even upon Iuffice it felf, the very foule of ourstate. for the restof the Judges upon the Bench, venerable images of Austria, he most tyranously compel'd to set their hands to his most unjust sentence; did ever story remember the like outrage and injustice; what for feit, what penalty can be enough to fatisfie this transcendent offence? and yet my good Lords, this is but veniall to the facriledge which now followes, and by him committed, not content with this fentence, not fatisfied with horrid violence upon the facred Tribunall, but hee proceedes and blasphemes the very name and honour of the King himselfe, observe that, making him the author and impulsive cause of all these rapines, justifying that he mov'd onely by his speciall command to the death, nay the murder of his most faithfull subject, translating all his owne blacke and damnable guilt upon the Kings heires, a traytor to his Country, first, he conspires the death of one whom the King loves, and whom every subject ought to honour, and thenmakes it no conscience to proclaime it the Kings act, & by confequence declares him a murderer :

murderer of his owne, and of his best subjects. Within An Advocate, an Advocate, teare him in peeces, Teare the Chancellor in peeces. fiuffice.

Tre. The people have deepe fence of the Chancellors in-Sec. We must be carefull to prevent their mutiny.

I Ind. It will become our wisedomes to secure the court And prifoner.

Tre. Captaine of the guard.

2. What can you say for your selfe Lord Chancellor.

Cha. Againe, I confesse all, and humbly fly to

The royall mercy of the King.

Tre. And this submission is the way to purchase it. Cha. Heare me great Iudges, if you have not loft For my fake all your charities, I befeech you, Let the King know my heart is full of penitence, Calme his high-going fea, or in that tempest I ruine to eternitie, oh my Lords, Consider your owne places, and the helmes You fit at, while with all your providence You steere, looke forth and see devouring quicksands, My ambition now is punish'd, and my pride Of state and greatnesse falling into nothing, I that had never time through vast employments To thinke of heaven, feele his revengefull wrath, Boyling my blood, and scorching up my entrills, There doomesday is my conscience blacke and horrid, For my abuse of suffice, but no stings Prickt with that terrour as the wounds I made V pon the pious Admirall, some good man Beare my repentance thither, he is mercifull, And may encline the King to stay his lightning Which threatens my confusion, that my free Refigne of title, office, and what else My pride look'd at, would buy my poore lives fafety, For ever banish me the court, and let Me waste my life farre off in some Village.

Adv. How? Did your Lordships note his request to you, he would direct your sentence to punish him with confining him to live in the country, like the Mouse in the Fable, that having offended to deserve death, beg'd he might be banished into a Parmisan. I hope your Lordships will be more just to the nature of his offences.

Sec. I could have wish'd him fall on softer ground

For his good parts.

Tre. My Lord, this is your fentence for you high mildemeanours against his Majesties Iudges, for your unjust sentence of the most equal Lord Admirall, for many and soule corruptions and abuse of your office, and that infinite staine of the Kings person, and honour, we in his Majesties name, deprive you of your estate of Chancellor, & declare you uncapeable of any judicial office, & besides condemne you in the sum of two hundred thousand crownes; whereof one hundred thousand to the King, and one hundred thousand to the Lord Admirall, and what remaineth of your estate to goe to the restitution of those you have injured, and to suffer perpetual imprisonment in the Castle, so take him to your custody. Your Lordships have been emerciful in his sentence.

They have spar'd my life then, that some cure may bring,

I spend it in my prayers for the King.

Exeunt:

Enter Admirall in his Gowne and Cap, bis Wife.

Adm. Allegie I am glad he hath so much strength,
I prethee let me see him.

Wif. It will but

Enlarge a paffion my Lord hee'le come Another time and tender you his fervice.

Wif. Although I like it not, I must obey.

Enter Allegre Supported.

Adm. Welcome my injured fervant, what a mifery

Ha they made on thee it mode work

Al. Though fome change appeare
Vpon my body, whole levere affliction
Hath brought it thus to be fulfained by others,
My hurt is still the fame in faith to you,
Not broken with their rage.

Adm. Alas poore man !

Were

Were all my joyes effentiall, and so mighty
As the affected world beleeves I taste,
This object were enough to unsweeten all,
Though in thy absence I had suffering,
And felt within me a strong sympathy,
While for my sake their cruelty did vexe,
And fright thy nerves with horrour of thy sence,
Yet in this spectacle I apprehend
More griefe than all my imagination
Could let before into me; didst not eurse me
Vpon the torture?

Al. Good my Lord, let not The thought of what I fuffer'd dwell upon Your memory, they could not punish more Then what my duty did oblige to beare For you and Iustice, but theres some thing in Your lookes, presents more feare than all the mallice Of my tormentors could affect my foule with, That palenesse, and the other formes you weare, Would well become a guilty Admirall, and one Loft to his hopes and honour, not the man Vpon whose life the fury of unjustice Arm'd with fierce lightning, and the power of thunder, Can make no breach, I was not rack'd till now, Theres more death in that falling eye, than all Rage ever yet brought forth, what accident fir can blaft, Can be so blacke and fatall to distract The calme? the triumph that should fir upon Your noble brow, mefortune could have no Time to conspire with fate, since you were rescued By the great arme of providence, nor can Those garlands that now grow about your forehead " With all the poylon of the world be blafted.

Adm. Allegre, thou dost beare thy wounds upon thee, and in wide and spacious characters, but in

The volumne of my tadmesse about dost want of the at the distribution of the analysis which sometime may cure

The

The engine is not seene that wounds thy Master, Past all the remedy of art or time, The flatteries of Court, of fame or honours Thus in the Sommer a tall flourishing tree, Transplanted by strong hand, with all her leaves And blooming pride upon her makes a thew Of Spring, tempting the eye with wanton bloffome, But not the Sunne with all her amorous fmiles, The dewes of mornings, or the teares of night, the Can roote her fibers in the earth agen, Or make her bosome kinde, to growth and bearing, But the tree withers, and those very beames That once were naturall warmth to her foft verdure Dry up her fap and shoote a feaver through no you at when I A The barke and rinde, till the becomes a burthen in the barke To that which gave her life : fo Chabot, Chabot, was line Al. Wonder in apprehension, I must Suspect your health indeede, also on a grand list dingland

Adm. No no, thou thanot a savet a man and and and the Be troubled, I but fire d thee with a morrall,

Thats empty containes nothing, I am well,
See I can walke poore man, thou half not firength yet.

Al. What accident is ground of this distraction?

Adm. Thou hast not heard yet whats become oth' ChancelAl. Not yet my Lord. (lor?

Adm, Poore gentleman, when I thinke
Vpon the King, I've balme enough to cure
A thousand wounds, have I not Alegre?
Was ever bountious mercy read in story,
Like his upon my life, condemn'd for sacrifice
By Law, and snatch'd out of the slame unlooked for,
And unpetitioned? but his justice then
That wod not spare whom his owne love made great,
But give me up to the most cruell test
Of sudges, for some boldnesse in defence
Of my owne merits, and my honest faith to him
Was rare, past example.

1

The Admirall of France. Enter Father.

Fa. Sir, the King Is comming hither, want Al. It will Become my duty fir to leave you now.

Adm, Stay by all meanes Allegre, 'tha il concerne you,

I'me infinitely honor'd in his presence.

Enter King, Queene, Conftable, and Wife. King, Madam be comforred, He be his Philitian. Wif. Pray heaven you may.

King. No ceremoniall knees. Give me thy heart, my deare, my honest Chabot, And yet in vaine I chalenge that tis here Already in my owne, and shall be cherish'd With care of my belt life, violence Shall ravish it from my possession. Not those distempers that infirme my blood And spirits shall betray it to a feare, When time and nature joyne to dispossesses My body of a cold and languishing breath, No stroake in all my arteries, but filence In every faculty, yet diffect me then, And in my heart; the world thall read thee living,

And by the vertue of thy name write there, That part of me shall never puttifie. When I am loft in all my other duft.

Adm. You too much honour your poore fervant fir. My heart dispares forich a monument;

But when it dies King. I wonot heave a found a various Of any thing that trenched upon death, He speakes the funerall of my crowne that propheties So unkinde a fate, weele live and die rogether, And by that duty which bath rought you hitherton a in the All loyall and just services I charge thee omed tot eschal Preserve thy heart for me and thy reward, was some you Which now shall crowne thy merits.

Adm. I have found

A glorious harvest in your favour sir, And by this overflow of royall grace, All my deferts are shadowes and flie from mee, and all walls I have not in the wealth of my defires, and ad year yaramin and W Enough to pay you now, yet your encourage me ov salet you roll Glory enough to be fet riebt in yours, . . stind one sam oT King. So soone as nam'd possesse it. Adm. You would be pleas'd take notice of this Gentleman, A Secretary of mine. ent by volume of the Con, Mounfieur Allegre. He that was rack'd fir for your Admirall to snow said the fire Adm. His limbs want strength to tender their full duty, An honest man that suffers for my fake. King. He shall be deare to us, for what has past fir By the unjustice of our Chancellors power, Weele fludy to recompence, ith' meane time that office You exercis'd for Chabot we translate To our selfe, you shall be our Secretary. _ Smyssell Boydass Al. This is An honour above my weake defert, and shall the state of the Oblige the fervice of my life to facisfie it 1891 of algod I work Adm. You are gracious, and in this act have put All our complaints to filence, you Allegre, Enter Tresuror, Secretary. Cherish your health, and feeble limbs which cannot Without much prejudice be thus employ'd: All my best wishes with thee. When a most breed with thee. Are duries to your Lordship King. Tistoolittle, and hard on web Can forfeit of his place, wealth, and a lasting Imprisonment purge his offences to Our honest Admirall, had our person beene Exempted from his mallice, he did perfecute The life of Chabot with an equall wrath, You should have powr'd death on his treacherous head,

I revoke all your fentences, and make

Him that was wrong'd full Master of his destiny,

Be thou his judge. Adm. O farre be such injustice. I know his doome is heavie, and I begge Where mercy may be let into his fentence For my fake you would fofcen it, I have Glory enough to be fet right in yours, And my deare countries thought, and by an act. With fuch apparent notice to the world. King. Expresse it in some joy then.

Adm. I will frive

To she w that pious gratitude to you but

Kng. But what

Adm. My frame hath lately fir beene tane a peeces And but now put together, the least force

Of mirth will shake and unjoynt all my reason,

Your patience royall fir.

King. Ile have no patience, If thou forget the courage of a man,

Adm. My ftrength would flatter me.

King Philitianater ben and bertann ven beete

Now I begin to feare his apprehension. Why how is Chahots spirit faine?

Qu. Twere best

He were convei'd to his bed.

Wif. How loone rurn'd widdow.

Adm. Who would not wish to live to ferve your goodness. Stand from me, you betray me with your feares. The plummets may fall off that hang upon My heart, they were but thoughts at first, or if They weigh me downe to death, let not n'y eyes Close with another object then the King, Let him be last I looke on.

King. I would not have him loft for my whole Kingdome. Con. He may recover fir,

King. I see it fall,

For Iultice being the proppe of every Kingdome: And mine broke, violating him that was The knot and contract of it all in him. It already falling in my care,

And Capitoll were deafe, so heavens loud chiding, Ile have another sentence for my Chancellor, Vnlesse my Chabot live,

In a Prince

What a fwift executioner is a frowne, Especially of great and noble soules; How is it with my Philip?

Adm. I must begge

One other boone.

King. Vpon condition
My Chabot will collect his scatter'd spirits,
And be himselfe agen, he shall divide
My Kingdome with me.

Fa. Sweete King.

A fierce and killing wrath engendred in you;
For my lake, as you wish me strength to serve you.
Forgive your Chancellor, lee not the story
Of Philip Chahor read hereaster draw
A teare from any family, I beseech
Your royall mercy on his life, and free
Remission of all scasure upon his state,

L have no comfort else.

King. Endeavour
But thy owne health, and pronounce generall pardon

To all through France.

Adm. Sir I must kneele to thanke you, It is not seal'delse, your blest hand live happy, May all you trust have no lesse faith then Chabet, Oh.

Wif. His heart is broken.

Fa. And kneeling fir,

As his ambition were in death to shew.
The truth of his obedience.

Con. I feard this iffue.

Tre. Hees past hope.

King. He has a victory ins death, this world

I.3 .

Deferv'd

Deferv'd him not, how foone he was translated To glorious eternitie, tis too late To fright the ayre with words, my teares embalme him. Viletto my Chart live. wif. What can become of me? Qu. He be your husband Madam, and with care Supply your childrens father, to your father was a line a sail W He be a fonne, in what our love or power Can ferve his friends, Chabot (hall nere be wanting. The greatest losse is mine, past scale or recompence, We will proceede no further gainst the Chancellor, diadioon.O.

To the charitie of our Admirall he owes have not have His life which ever banish'd to a prison, Shall not beget in us, or in the subject New feares of his injustice, for his forgunes Great and acquir'd corruptly, tis our will, and acquir'd corruptly They make just restitution for all wrongs That shall within a yeare be prov'd against him; O Chabet that shall boast as many monuments As there be hearts in France, which as they grow, 10 19 119 10 1 Shall with more love enthrine thee, Kings they fay,

Die not, or flarve fuccession, ob why I whimal you more a sat A Should that fland firm:, and Kings themselves despaire, To finde their subject still in the next heire. Mand mothers

Chiminas comforestic. King, Endeavour

Con Car Man and f

. Sulli side tosen

F 7 N 7 S.

But thy owne health, and pronounce co. terall fixeen

C 4996 98553

REPRODUCED FROM THE COPY IN THE

HENRY E. HUNTINGTON LIBRARY

FOR REFERENCE ONLY. NOT FOR REPRODUCTION